Gov. Dewey Is Coming Here to Break Ground For B'way Crossing Job

Will Speak to 3 Clubs, Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions While in City for Big Event

Planning Program

Senator Wicks, Mayor Newkirk Are Busy on Reception Plans

Governor Thomas E. Dewey will be in Kingston on Thursday for ground-breaking ceremonies starting the elimination of the Broadway railroad crossing and to address three service clubs at a joint luncheon.

Senator Wicks told a reporter today that the governor would turn the first shovel of earth to start the project which had become a reality after more than 30 years of discussion.

President Harry Rigby of Kingston Kiwanis Club said he had received confirmation from the governor's office that Dewey would be at the luncheon in the Governor Clinton Hotel at noon to make a non-political speech to his organization, the Lions and Rotary.

Senator Wicks, Mayor Newkirk and other city officials are busy arranging an appropriate program for the starting of the crossing contract. The ceremonies are to be held on Greenkill avenue, near Broadway.

Kiwanis President Rigby said he expects approximately 300 to attend the joint luncheon in the governor's honor and advised those desiring reservations to make them through their own clubs.

In view of the fact that elimination of the railroad crossing is considered one of vital importance to the progress of Kingston, the ground-breaking ceremonies are expected to be of an elaborate nature.

Arrangements will be announced as soon as completed, Senator Wicks said.

Cab, Truck Collide

Horace Clifton Merwin, 46 Charlotte Place East, a driver for Perry's Taxi Service, 598 Broadway, and George Siegel, 58, of 176 O'Neil street, were injured slightly last night when the cab and a truck of Needes Express, Inc., 25 South Manor avenue, were in collision on Manor avenue, according to the police. Officers Edward Leonard and Leonard Ellsworth, who investigated, said the truck, operated by Kenneth Reynolds was backing toward a loading platform at the time of the mishap. The taxi driver reported a "bump on the head" and Siegel an injury to the right knee, the report said.

Taxi Driver Kills Self

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—A Brooklyn taxi driver, heartbroken because he could not set up a home for his wife and son, killed himself today by running a tube from the exhaust to the trunk of his cab. A passerby summoned police after noticing the tube and the motor running in the cab. Police found the body of Edward Walton, 39, doubled in the trunk.

Central's Coal Is Dwindling; May Cut More Trains

New York, Oct. 28 (AP) — The New York Central Railroad says it has 22 days' supply of coal on hand, but that it does not mean all coal-operated trains would be halted after that time.

A company official explained yesterday that, providing the coal strike is not settled, "further curtailment of passenger service and an automatic dwindling of freight service would occur before coal stocks were exhausted." Seventy per cent of the Central's trains run on coal.

Also, the company spokesman said, some coal now being shipped from non-union mines probably would be confiscated for the railroad's use "as is legal and customary in such emergencies."

The New York Central, along with other railroads, trimmed operation of its steam-driven passenger trains 25 per cent Tuesday midnight in accordance with government orders.

The railroad spokesman said the announcement on operations was made to correct any misunderstanding resulting from a statement by a company agent at Utica to the effect that the railroad had less than a two-week supply of coal on hand. The agent, the railroad spokesman said, was unfamiliar with overall operations.

Police Chief Asks Children to Keep Sane Halloween

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren today issued the following appeal to the children of the city to refrain from "wanton and malicious acts" on Halloween:

Again the one night of the year, which in the past has proven to be one of grave concern to your Police Department and to the property owners of the city is approaching—Halloween.

I, hereby appeal to the youth of Kingston, to please refrain from doing those wanton and malicious acts on this night which in the past have proven to be costly, unsafe and unsightly. I specifically request that you refrain from the souping of windows, the stealing of gates, upsetting of garbage and ash cans, starting of curb fires, hiding and playing in leaves along the curb. In fact, any other act which you would not think of doing on any other night of the year.

It is not my desire to deprive you of good clean fun. Dress up if you will. Masquerade and parade to your hearts content. Call at the homes of your neighbors and friends. Meet with the other youth of our city at either end of Broadway and parade to the music of good bands to the municipal auditorium, which our Mayor Newkirk has so very graciously thrown open and placed at your disposal for the evening.

Join in the supervised facilities at said place. You are assured a good time by your Recreation Department, who under the leadership of Andrew Murphy III and Harry Edson, have made great plans for your evening's entertainment. When the evening's frolic is over, Mayor Newkirk, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Edson and myself request that you go straight to your homes, happy in the knowledge of an enjoyable evening well spent, without injury to yourself or damage to the property of others.

John Landers Is Shot Accidentally

Shotgun of Companion Discharged While Walking Tracks

John William Landers, 15, of 18 Ora Place was painfully shot through his right shoulder about 10 a. m. today when a hunting companion's shotgun accidently discharged, the sheriff's office reported.

Landers and two other city youths were walking along the Ulster and Delaware Railroad tracks and were about midway between the city line and Cahills Hill when the accident occurred. Stopping the flow of blood with a handkerchief, the youths walked back to Kingston, stopping at Howard's Tackle and Gun Shop on Washington avenue, from where Landers was taken to the Kingston Hospital in an automobile, County Investigator Clayton Vredenburg reported.

At the hospital this afternoon, the attending physician, Dr. Fred S. Carr, told District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn that the load of shot from a .20 guage shotgun entered the youth's shoulder and fractured the shoulder blade. The wound is serious, but the youth's condition is not critical, he said.

Vredenburg learned from questioning the other two in the party that they were walking along the tracks when they heard something in the bushes. One of the boys, Walter D. Faurote, 16, of 16 Ora Place, started to look his gun when he tripped on the rail

France's Longest Political Crisis In 50 Years Ends

Bidault Forms Cabinet Lineup Before National Assembly Approved Him, 367 to 183

Paris, Oct. 28 (AP) — France's longest political crisis in 50 years ended early today with the confirmation of Georges Bidault as premier.

Bidault had formed his cabinet lineup before the National Assembly approved him 367 to 183.

For the 50-year-old leader of the M.R.P. (Popular Republican Movement), today's coming to power was a full circle of the political wheel. Head of the wartime resistance in France, Bidault was his country's provisional president and premier from June to December, 1946, and her foreign minister from 1945 until July, 1948.

Soon after his confirmation, Bidault presented his cabinet to President Vincent Auriol. He had secured party agreement to the cabinet lineup before the assembly vote, overcoming in advance the obstacle on which two previous choices for premier floundered.

Bidault's new government was based on the same coalition of center parties which have been governing France for more than two years. His program was almost identical with that proposed by Socialist Jules Moch and radical Socialist Rene Mayer, who had failed in forming governments.

Like them, Bidault promised a cost-of-living bonus for the lowest paid workers. Disagreement over the wage issue had forced the resignation of Premier Henri Queille's government on Oct. 6.

France had not been so long without a government, historians said, since 1899, when Rene Waldeck Rousseau formed a cabinet after the country had been without one for a month.

Approving Bidault as premier, the National Assembly gave him the biggest majority for a premier at his start in office since November, 1947, when Robert Schuman received 412 votes. Bidault needed only 310 votes.

The new Bidault government was much similar to the Queuille government. Ten of the 18 ministers were retained in their old jobs. Queuille himself was back as vice premier and minister without portfolio.

Among Queuille's 16 ministers there had been five Socialists, two Radical Socialists (moderates) and six M.R.P. members. Bidault named 18 ministers, with five Socialists, three Radical Socialists, six M.R.P. and the rest from small rightest or independent groups.

Bidault retained Schuman as foreign minister.

Denfeld's Successor May Be Sherman

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld answers phone in his office after President Truman fired him from his post as chief of naval operations. The President announced to a news conference that he was acting on the advice of Secretary of the Navy Matthews that "for the good of the country" Denfeld should be transferred "to other duties." Vice Admiral Forrest T. Sherman has been mentioned as his possible successor. Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul H. Griffith was quoted in the Washington Post as saying that Sherman is returning to the capital this week from maneuvers of the Mediterranean fleet which he commands.

Truman Is Ready For 1950 Campaign

Has Embarrassment-Proof Armor All Set for His Political Drive

By JACK BELL

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—President Truman has his embarrassment-proof armor all ready for the slings and arrows of the 1950 political campaign.

However, he has left up in the air the question whether he will lend help to the efforts of Rep. Leonard Irving, Democrat, to win renomination and re-election in Mr. Truman's home congressional district in Missouri.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he will cross that bridge when he comes to it. That would be sometime next spring, before the Missouri primary.

Irving, who won his seat in the fourth Missouri district last year with Mr. Truman's blessings, has had some embarrassing troubles recently. He fired an office employe after the local papers had printed stories about his having locked his staff out of his capitol office.

Last August a Kansas City Circuit Court judge dismissed a suit brought against Irving for an accounting of funds of the A.F.L. Hod Carriers Union. A later meeting of the local addressed by Irving broke up in a fight. Irving is president and business manager of the local union in Kansas City.

A reporter told Mr. Truman that Irving had blamed part of his troubles on efforts of Irving's enemies to embarrass the President.

Mr. Truman replied that he is embarrass-proof. Everybody in the world has tried to embarrass him and they can't do it, the President added.

Pigeons to Start Yule Seal Drive

Homing Birds Are Sought to Represent All County Towns

Only three Ulster county pigeon raisers having homing pigeons have been contacted so far by the Christmas Seal Sale Committee, it was announced today by Dr. Clement I. Angstrom, committee chairman.

The committee desires to obtain the use of homing pigeons from each town in the county for its opening event on November 19, when it is planned to release the pigeons from Academy Park in Kingston. Each pigeon will be standing by to receive his first copies of the seal.

Locating homing pigeons has proven more difficult than expected, according to Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, sponsor of the sale. Although there are many pigeon raisers in the county, most raise either the fancy or squabbing variety of birds which are not suited to carrying messages.

The three persons who have already agreed to send homing pigeons to Kingston for the opening ceremonies are Harold Nielsen of New Paltz, Al Larsen of Hurley avenue and James Davis of Hurley. The capsules which will be attached to the birds and in which the seals will be placed have already been obtained through the courtesy of The New York Times. Homing pigeons were at one time used fairly extensively by large metropolitan newspapers.

Calling Union Painters

Two officers of the Painters' Union today urged all members for whom it is possible to be at a day nursery of the Volunteers of America on Barmann avenue Saturday morning to help paint the building free. M. H. Herzog, uptown merchant, is donating the paint, President Joseph Netherwood and Secretary Stephen Gill hope for a large turnout of painters to help on the project.

Receipts Drop

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—Government receipts from retail excise taxes during September dropped $4,131,000 below September, 1948, the Internal Revenue Bureau reported today. The decline was most marked in levies on sales of jewelry and furs, but luggage preparations and even cosmetics returned less money under the 20 per cent impost.

Truman Sees No Emergency in Current Strikes

Have Not Hurt Country Enough to Call the Situation National Emergency

By NORMAN WALKER

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—President Truman's decision not to intervene in the big steel-coal strikes was expected today to bring redoubled efforts toward voluntary settlement of the two disputes.

Mr. Truman said the 28-day steel and 37-day coal strikes have not hurt the country enough to call the situation a national emergency. That time, he told a news conference yesterday, is still a long way off.

There must be such an emergency before strike-halting court injunctions can be sought under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), one of the law's authors, said last night in Ohio that he too believes the time has yet to come for using Taft-Hartley emergency powers.

"I quite agree with the Labor position that the injunctive process should never be used except in great emergency," Taft added.

Others thought the President should act now before effects of the two strikes get worse. Senator Wherry (R.-Neb.), G.O.P. floor leader in the Senate, said if Mr. Truman doesn't realize there is a national emergency now "he is about the only person in the country who doesn't."

The President's news conference statement didn't rule out the chance that he may call the strike principals to the White House for a pep talk.

In fact, Senator Humphrey (D.-Minn.) urged such a White House meeting to "see what can be worked out."

But for a while, at least, the administration seemed to be leaving the entire situation in the hands of 73-year old, genial Cyrus S. Ching.

As director of the Federal Mediation Service, Ching has been busy for weeks trying to prod steel and coal labor and management men into peace moves.

For eight out of the past 11 days he has been meeting in New York with officials of the U. S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest producer. He's been in touch with officials of Philip Murray's striking C.I.O. steelworkers, too.

Murray himself was in New York yesterday, but Ching evidently could find no basis for bringing him and U. S. Steel officials together.

Murray was holding fast to his stand that the steel industry should accept a Presidential board's recommendation that employers pay the entire cost of a pension-insurance plan for workers. The steel industry was insisting that workers should chip in too.

Hurt in Fall From Auto

Ethel Albright, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Albright, Eddyville, was injured yesterday afternoon when she fell from an auto, it was learned today. Police had no information on the mishap, but it was learned from the family doctor that she suffered a scalp laceration, a concussion, and contusions and abrasions of an ankle. She was admitted to the Benedictine Hospital at about 5 p. m. yesterday and her condition today was said to be "fair."

Airship Strays From Course, Rams High Mountain Peak on Sao Miguel Island

11 Americans Dead

Many Noted Passengers Were Making Flight to New York

Paris, Oct. 28 (AP)—A Paris-to-New York Constellation carrying 48 persons crashed in flames against a mountain peak in the Azores today. The Air France Line said all aboard perished, including French boxer Marcel Cerdan and 11 Americans.

The plane apparently strayed from its course in bad weather and poor visibility and rammed into the 3,500-foot Algarvia peak in the northeast section of Sao Miguel Island. It was five minutes away from a landing at Santa Maria in the Azores when its last message was heard. Eight hours later the wreckage was sighted.

Air France here said it received word from Santa Maria by cable that rescue parties had rushed to the scene and found all 37 passengers and 11 crewmen dead.

Besides Cerdan, his manager and his trainer, the plane carried: Ginette Neveu, noted French violin virtuoso bound for an extended concert tour in the United States; Guy Jasmin, editor in chief of the Montreal, Que., French-language newspaper La Canada; and his mother; Remigio Hernandorena, prominent Cuban yachtsman; Ray Kamen, president of Ray Kamen, Ltd., licensing representative for Walt Disney characters, and Mrs. Kamen; and Louis Boutet de Monvel, widely known French painter and illustrator of children's books.

Was to Box La Motta

Cerdan, former world middleweight champion, was on his way to New York for a title bout scheduled Dec. 2 at Madison Square Garden with Jake La Motta, to whom he lost the title in Detroit. With him were his manager, Jo Longman, and his trainer, Paul Jenser.

Air France lists identified the Americans as:

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Salles, 502 West 112th street, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kamen, 875 Fifth avenue, New York.

Farmers Warned By Grange League About Hard Times

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—The general manager of the Grange League Federation Cooperative advised farmers today to prepare for hard times.

Addressing about 2,000 delegates to the 25th annual G.L.F. convention, James A. McConnell of Ithaca asserted that the "realistic" viewpoint is to assume that "the general price level will continue downward for a period of years, as after every great war."

McConnell added:

"I believe we should prepare for some tough times, hoping we won't get them. "If we don't, any preparation we have made for tough times will be just as valuable in good times."

McConnell's remarks were part of his annual report on management operations of the G.L.F., which claims approximately 100,000 member-stockholders in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

He reported that during the fiscal year ended June 30, the cooperative sold over 2,000,000 tons of feed, seeds, fertilizer and other farm supplies with a wholesale value of $145,000,000.

A total of $2,940,000 was returned to farmers as dividends on stock and in cash patronage refunds on purchases.

G.L.F. President Frank S. Smith of Springfield Center said that during the cooperative's past operating year feed prices declined $25 a ton, and that the G.L.F. passed the lower prices on to members without regard to what it had paid for the ingredients.

15-Minute Disease Checkup Will Replace Separate Tests

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—A shotgun hunt to find and halt diseases you don't even know you have looks like the next big health step. The shotgun hunt will be a quick series of tests at one time to check for tuberculosis, diabetes, anemia, some kinds of cancer and heart diseases, syphilis, and other diseases. It will take perhaps 15 to 30 minutes.

At present such hunts are done separately, like firing single bullets. There are cancer detection centers, mass chest X-ray surveys for TB, surveys to find diabetes and syphilis.

These hunts find thousands of people who have the disease being checked for. People are sent to their physicians for early treatment that can save life. But each hunt can overlook other serious, even unsuspected diseases.

Tying the tests together, in a shotgun approach, was described to the American Public Health Association by Dr. Lester Breslow, chief of the chronic disease service, California State Department of Public Health.

Even a simple battery of tests could probably spot 20 to 25 people with unsuspected, significant disease out of each 1,000 examined, he said.

The first trial with multiple tests was made in San Jose, Calif., on 945 workers in four industries.

Winnes' Life in West Is Ladies Home Journal Feature

The present life in the west of Ben Winne, former local merchant, and father of Bruce Winne, who is now Robert Hutton of the Movies, is the subject of an article in the November issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, it was learned today.

The article, titled, "How Reno Lives," is part of the magazine's series on "How America Lives," and tells of the manner in which Winne and his family live at Truckee Meadows, a dude ranch near Reno, Nev.

In describing the article which appears in the magazine on the newsstands Friday, the editorial staff of the Ladies' Home Journal writes in part as follows:

"The Winnes' back yard is the lovely Sierra mountains, their dude ranch encompasses sweeping green acres. But their guests are there for a different kind of freedom. Last year the Winnes entertained 98 men and women who spent with them the six weeks required for a divorce in Reno. The Lazy A Bar ranch, which is the name of the Winnes' layout, lies 10 miles south of Reno in the fertile, well-watered Truckee Meadows.

Ben As the Host

"The host, Ben Winne, is a dark-eyed six-footer in his early sixties, with wind-bronzed skin and trim waistline that looks even trimmer in his tight-fitting frontier pants. Actually, he was born in Kingston, N. Y., and was a prosperous hardware merchant there until a few years ago. A son by a former marriage is Bob Hutton of Hollywood fame. His wife, Bert, is a small, plump, pretty-faced woman in her late thirties, with blue eyes and a complexion as smooth as the cream which she herself churns to butter for the ranch-house table. She, too, sometimes dresses in high western style with fringed leather chaps and bright-colored shirts, but she spends most of her days in practical blue jeans.

"The Winnes form a good practical team for running a guest ranch. Bert enjoys supervising the dairy and household chores, while Ben with his long business training, handles the accounts and the important 'contracts' with the lawyers in Reno who send them most of their customers.

Handsome Son

"Their son Lee, age six, is a miniature cowboy with big black eyes and straight dark hair, who resembles strongly his illustrious half-brother, Bob Hutton, whose photographs are everywhere to be seen around the Winnes' rooms. Lee has his own horse and saddle and goes fishing with his father; this fall he starts to school, where most of his classmates will be ranchers' children.

"The Winnes' ranch has accommodations for 18 paying guests in the low stone and redwood ranch buildings on the place. During most of the year they are full or close to it.

"About the only general rule these guests follow is that they arrive in an unhappy mood and depart feeling better. Bert Winne advises them to forget their troubles and to regard their stay in the picturesque country as a pleasant vacation. Many of them bring their families to the ranch and want only a quiet place to eat, to swim (the ranch has a pool) and to care for the children. Others crave the excitement of Reno's night life, and make the rounds of the city's two acres of clubs escorted by cowboys. The women pay the checks.

Today most women who come to Reno for divorce pay for their own decrees, say the Winnes, and allmonies are fairly rare now."

SERENADE TO MOM—Mrs. Clara Sulkowski, at left, a tuberculosis patient at a Cleveland, O., hospital, listens to a popular song presented by her children, Betty Lou, 5; Richard, 14, and Arthur, 7. Her husband, Steve, holds the music. The troubadors have been regular week-end visitors to the hospital since their mother entered it almost a year ago. Their serenades not only cheered Mrs. Sulkowski, but became a special event for other patients in the tuberculosis pavilion. Soon Mrs. Sulkowski will be well enough to leave. The remaining patients will miss their Sulkowski serenades.

Workers to 'Hire Boss'

New York (AP)—If you want to be happy in your work, you've got to hire your boss! says Management Counselor Leo Nejelski. "Too many people exist in dead-end jobs," says Nejelski. "They gyp themselves out of success by enduring a position they don't really want. And they get in that spot by getting a job in the wrong way." Most persons ask relatives or friends for help in getting a job without giving thought to the nature of the employment, says Nejelski in the American Magazine. He says a person should approach job-getting in a systematic manner instead of just going to work for anyone in any line of endeavor. He urges job-seekers to make full use of reliable vocational-guidance clinics or aptitude-testing services or seek counsel from such organizations as the Y.M.C.A., U. S. or state employment services.

The play of the cards is a difficult subject to write about. John Brown of England does a good job of it in his book entitled "Winning Tricks," now published in this country.

Today's hand, No. 85 in the book, is entitled "Refusing to Make an Ace" Although the point involved is one that comes up fairly often, even the better players seldom make the correct play.

North and South rather optimistically arrived at a slam contract, and West led the jack of spades Should East win this trick with the ace, even though there is a singleton in dummy?

East should know from the lead of the jack that South has the king and queen of spades. Of course West could have led from the king-jack-ten, but few players make that opening. In all probability, the lead of the jack by West denies the king and queen As Mr. Brown points out, if East goes up with the ace, South will be able to discard the five and deuce of hearts from dummy on the king and queen of spades, and make his contract.

If East refuses to win the first trick with the ace of spades, and South wins with the queen, there is no way he can avoid losing two heart tricks and his contract.

Teach Courtesy

Washington (AP)—Courtesy is a trump card in the restaurant business says a spokesman of the Washington Restaurant Association. Courtesy and sound financial training will be stressed in an educational program which the association is launching to improve the standards of the business. Supervisors, waitresses and everyone in the business will be admitted to the classes. "Statistics show," said the spokesman, "that 50 per cent of the people who enter the restaurant business drop out after the first year. By the second year, the figure is 80 per cent."

"... Yes, and disgusted with myself. For years I had put off opening a savings account — it was always to be the next pay day. Then when the time came that I really needed the cash, I didn't have it." This is a sad story which you have probably heard often . . . or maybe you have experienced yourself. Regardless of whether or not you were a victim of your own procrastination, don't get caught again. Be smart . . . not sorry. Save and save regularly. Remember, it isn't how much you save, but how often.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 28—Too many people die without leaving a will. The result: financial tangles, family squabbles, lawsuits, and the disposition of the property entirely contrary to the wishes of the deceased.

Some day each of us will die. Making a will can neither hasten nor retard death, but a properly drawn will, executed by a competent lawyer, may save post-mortem disputes and prevent the distribution of an estate contrary to the wishes of the testator.

For example, property belonging to an intestate estate usually cannot be sold without a license from the court. This costs money. A will saves this difficulty. The testator can direct exactly how his property is to be disposed. Everyone, man or woman, who has real estate, bank accounts, securities, or a car should have a will and he should not wait until he is upon his death bed, either, to frame this important document.

Property Distribution Without a Will

Every state has laws concerning the disposition of property for those who are too lazy to make a will. Let us suppose you are married, your wife is living, and you have young children. You die, leaving a modest amount of property. You leave no will. In most states your wife is entitled to only one-third of your property; your children, whether you have one or a dozen, to the other two-thirds. Your wife must be appointed legal guardian which involves an appreciable expenditure from your children's share of the property. Your wife's share of the property may soon be exhausted trying to support the children. When your children come of age and receive their inheritance, they may not see fit to aid their mother. Thus your widow lives on "old age assistance" because you failed to spend $10-$25 and a half an hour with a lawyer.

We all know of situations where, without a will, property and especially real estate has passed along, by law, to children not on speaking terms with one another. One of the inheritors may wish to sell, rent, or otherwise dispose of the property. The consent of other brothers and sisters who have a similar interest in the property cannot be obtained. The family squabble continues and all parties lose money via lawsuits. Or, consider the case when a man dies and leaves no children but leaves other relatives. In Massachusetts, for example, if the estate is $10,000 or less, the wife gets all. If the estate totals more than $10,000, the wife gets the first $10,000 and only one-half the additional value of the estate. The long lost relatives get the rest! Wherever you live, the legal disposition of your estate may be quite contrary to your wishes.

Why Procrastinate?

Don't be foolish! I knew a thrifty Scot who said he would save ten dollars and a visit to his lawyer. He got a sample form of a will, copied it, but failed to have it witnessed by the proper number of witnesses required by his state to make this document legal. The probate court tossed it out and the old man's wishes went to the winds.

A friend of one of my business associates died the other day. She was a widow in her middle fifties. She had no children nor near kin. She left no will. She had talked to many about her estate and what she had her heart set on doing with it when the time came. Then she hastily added: "I have 25 more years to live and plenty of time to think about a will." She would shudder now, I am sure, could she see the property being divided up by law among all her first cousins.

It used to be the custom among English lawyers, at professional meetings, to offer the first toast to those who wrote their own wills! They know that carelessly written wills bring the lawyers lots of business.

Veteran Committed To Salvation Home

New York, Oct. 28 (AP) — Edmund W. Mund, 21-year-old veteran who was crippled by a patrolman's bullet while fleeing the scene of an attempted holdup more than a year ago, was committed by Judge James M. Barrett to the Salvation Army Home at Hempstead, N. Y., when he appeared in Bronx County Court yesterday on a charge of violating probation.

Mund, who has been living at 381 East 160th street, the Bronx, with his mother, Elizabeth, was shot after he allegedly attempted to rob Louis Lopez at knife-point in front of the latter's home, 530 Brook avenue, the Bronx, on June 9, 1948. He pleaded guilty of second degree assault, and was given a suspended sentence in Bronx County Court on November 29, 1948, and placed on probation for five years.

Mund appeared in Bronx Magistrate's Court last August, accused of assaulting his mother with his fists, and as a result was charged with violating the probation.

Judge Barrett committed Mund to the Salvation Army Home at the request of his mother, who told the court that although she did not want him imprisoned she did want him "out of the house." After Mund agreed to the commitment, Judge Barrett terminated the probation.

Mund was hospitalized for months as a result of the bullet wound and, according to his mother, will be paralyzed for life. He appeared in court on crutches.

The Mason and Dixon Line was surveyed by two Englishmen, Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, 1763 to 1767, to settle disputes between Lords Baltimore and the Penn family.

SOUNDS OFF—Maj.-Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, above, president of the National Guard Association, charges that the Air Force—already deep in a row with the Navy over unification—is trying to absorb the Air National Guard and reduce it to a "purely reserve force." He named the secretary of the Air Force and top-ranking officers as among those trying to tamper with the Air Guard.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Carrie Buntin, wife of Howard Buntin of Newburgh on Oct. 18, after a long illness. She was a daughter of the late Leander and Mary Griffith Terwilliger of Plattekill. She was a former resident of Walden. Survivors are her husband and a daughter, Beatrice Kidd, of Newburgh.

NOURSE'S WARNING

Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's Economic Advisory Council, has spoken his mind in a fashion that ought to command the attention of all Americans.

While his remarks are being interpreted as an attack upon the Truman administration, Nourse made plain he did not intend them as such. He wished to spare no one—neither government nor business, labor or farmers.

He hopped on government for not putting its financial house in order, for "slipping back into deficits as a way of life" even while times are still good. He cautioned against "monetary and fiscal tricks" which he termed a "slippery road to misery."

Nourse criticized industrial management for not trying harder to cut prices in the national interest.

Farm, labor and other groups came in for censure for squeezing the U. S. economy in their own special interests. He told them all that they were selfishly demanding too much.

Then he added:

"If we are to maintain the march of economic progress, we must, individually and as groups, in private business and in politics, display industry, prudence and self-discipline and must recognize that we can't get more out of the economic system than we put in."

Nourse was quickly assailed by Senator O'Mahoney, Wyoming Democrat, for making what he called "merely a political argument against progressive policy." But this seems a somewhat odd criticism, for Nourse has just resigned his post on the ground that the council is enmeshed in political issues and Democratic party programs when it ought to be a strictly professional advisory body.

It strikes us that Nourse has done good service in sounding his warning. There is a great need to clear the atmosphere in this highly emotional debate over the "welfare state."

In the first place, no fair-minded person can deny the right of the ordinary citizen to reasonable security safeguards in today's uncertain times. But to acknowledge that right does not mean to lower the bars to an endless flood of demands for help of all kinds.

It is a very delicate task to develop needed security measures and still maintain the economy in its full productive vigor. Yet if due thought is not given to the country's basic economic health, security programs will become pointless.

We find it increasingly tiresome that those who do not understand the relation between productive wealth and security should see fit to attack as unprogressive everyone who does appreciate the connection. Not all critics of unbridled spending and unashamed pressure raids on the treasury are preachers of dark reaction.

We are approaching the time when elections will become contests to reward the party which provides or promises the greatest favors to the greatest number of pressure groups. If that time ever actually arrives, the federal government will be the prisoner of a give-away psychology that it has done virtually nothing to discourage.

For the genuine welfare of America's citizens, that time had better not come. We ought rather to heed Nourse's advice. We ought to think more about putting something into the economy and less about taking something out.

MODEST, BUT DESERVING

"Who was he? I never heard of him before." This must have been the reaction of many readers on learning that the Nobel peace prize for 1949 had been awarded to Lord Boyd Orr. Yet the choice has good foundation. Sir John Boyd Orr, the recipient, a nutrition expert, headed the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. He gave up this post early in 1948 to work for world federalism. Presumably it is this latter activity to which he owes his present honor, though food is by no means to be scored as an ally of peace-lovers.

The Nobel prizes are awarded by a special committee of the Norwegian parliament, which is sufficiently detached from Continental and American rivalries to make a dispassionate selection. Among the candidates considered were Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, now chairman of the Allied Far Eastern Commission, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. The honor has gone to a quiet and unassuming man, the likes of whom do much of the world's best work and often get little or no recognition.

If the correspondence of a spy were opened and found to contain as much information about the Navy and the Air Force as has been let out during the hearings at Washington, the hullabaloo as to where he got all the data would almost blow up the Capitol.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE NOISE THUNDERS

By Georgi Gramada, Special Krass Corespondent

Americans like to make speeches. Even if a man does not know how to make a speech, he likes to make a speech. How can he do it? He hires somebody, called a ghost writer, who writes the speech.

So Mr. Bourgeois stands up, his cheeks red, sweat flowing down his Wall Street neck, and he reads the speech. Sometimes he even does not know what he is reading. Does that bother him? Not at all. He prints the speech in a pamphlet and mails it out by the thousand. And nobody even bothers to read it, but it is good business for the Salvation Army which specializes in religion, which as Karl Marx said is opium for the masses, and old paper which they sell for dollars.

When it comes to an election, the noise thunders on all sides. There is no order. Each man says what he wants to say. There is no control. It is all disruption. Thunder to the right! Thunder in the middle! Thunder on the left!

Here they have all sorts of parties. Nearly all of them are pro-fascist. The true progressives, the enlightened toilers for the people, they belong to the party of peace. They speak the voice of the father of all people, J. Stalin. Alas, in the land of the dollar, they are few in number, but their voice is like thunder down the corridors of history.

They are few in number because in this land of the dollar, everybody has dollars. It is most unprogressive. How can people with dollars in their pockets understand their true interests? The dollar hypnotizes them and for it they sacrifice themselves on the altar like ancient savages. (This is no discrimination against savages, who are, after all, human beings, even like we Russians, who are the elite of the human race).

But to get back to the speeches: Each candidate for office goes around making speeches. That is what is wrong with the two-party system which these Americans call democracy, showing how without dialectical materialism, even the words get twisted. The candidate says: "Look at me. I am at least O.K. look at my opponents. They are bigots." The people stand and look. A thunderous silence greets the speech. Is the candidate surprised? He does not even know that the masses are thinking of Marx, Lenin, Stalin, the trio who gave to the world the blessings of communism.

The speaker is ignorant of this because the loud-speaker has stupefied him. He can only hear his own voice. At night, when he tries to sleep, that voice rings in his ears. He hears it but he does not understand a word. Finally, he falls asleep and the loud-speaker becomes the mighty voice of the international proletariat which shrieks through the funnels of history. He sleeps and he tosses on the billows of the world revolution and all over him fall the marks of Wall Street, the symbols of Marshallism, the atom bombs of Trumanism—the dollar.

One of these puppets of Wall Street will be elected. Does it make any difference which one? Not to the workers of the Ukraine, nor to the peasants of Rumania, nor to the brave Stakhanovists of Kuznetz. To them, it is all the same, because to win in this land of white supremacy, everyone must speak harshly of our beloved J. Stalin. Impudently, they call him Uncle Joe, "Down with Uncle Joe," they shout. And they get elected.

As the great proletarian writer, Maxim Gorki, said with advance knowledge, more than 20 years ago, and only a proletarian writer imbued with the spirit of Marx and Engels could have had such vision:

". . . What you call the civilization of the U. S. A. does not and cannot excite my sympathies. I think your civilization is the most deformed civilization on our planet, because it has magnified to monstrous proportions all the many and shameful deformities of European civilization."

And that is why they make so many speeches: It is to hide their deformities. In our fatherland of the worker, only J. Stalin speaks once or twice a year and when our beloved leader speaks, it is not necessary for anybody else to say anything

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EPILEPSY CAN BE CONTROLLED

I write frequently about epilepsy because in my student days there was no special or specific form of treatment. All that we could do was to use the quieting drug—bromine—and protect the patient from injuring himself during an attack. I have mentioned before my own experience of keeping an epileptic patient free of attacks for many months by washing out his stomach twice a week. An epileptic found it almost impossible to find employment as he was dangerous to himself and others. Today this is all changed. A pamphlet published by the National Association To Control Epilepsy, 22 East 67th street, New York, N. Y., written by Hans Hoff, M.D., and Helen Clarke, M.A., is "Will My Child Have Epilepsy?" Thirty years ago if this question had been put to a physician he would have been very guarded in his reply. Today the physician can give a more encouraging reply than ever before.

Epilepsy is a disorder of function of the brain in which there is altered or complete loss of consciousness accompanied by muscular movements. There need not be violent contortions of the body with a final fall to the floor or pavement. The muscular movements may consist of merely twitching the eyelids, or slight uncontrolled jerking of an arm or leg. The so-called seizure may even consist of a momentary loss of contact with surroundings, not apparent to the casual observer. The brain sends out electric waves in an orderly, regular manner, but in the epileptic this regularity of the brain is interrupted and epileptic seizures result. It is believed that these interruptions are due to sudden chemical imbalance in the brain.

As for heredity and the chance of a child becoming an epileptic, these research workers state that 44 per cent of the patients with a family history of epilepsy were admitted to the hospital compared with only 7 per cent of patients without a family history. They state further, however, that the chance of controlling epilepsy where there was a family history are excellent where diet and drug (Phenobarbital and others) treatments are properly given. This will be encouraging information to many with a family history of epilepsy.

Diet Suggestions in Epilepsy

He Chose a Fine Time to Walk Out on Us!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — U. S. diplomats from the Iron Curtain countries meeting in London this week had before them conclusive evidence that Stalin now plans a showdown with Tito. The showdown will be undertaken, as far as possible without leading to war, but if war is necessary the Kremlin apparently has decided to risk it.

Here are the factors which led American diplomats to this conclusion:

1. Tito's nose-thumbing at the Kremlin has become contagious. Other satellite countries are figuring that if Yugoslavia can get away with it, they can too. Tito, once trained as an N.K.V.D. agent, has sent his own agents out to work against Moscow in Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Roumania.

2. The end of the Greek civil war was not because the guerrillas were defeated, but to rest them for an attack on Tito. Seven thousand Greek guerrillas already have been transferred to Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia to get re-equipped.

3. A brigade of the east German people's police has been sent from Berlin to Bulgaria. They were previously trained in Yugoslavia during the German occupation, know how to fight Tito.

4. One attack on Tito has already taken place, though no news was published in the Yugoslav papers. The U. S. embassy reported that Russian guerrillas crossed from Hungary, fired a few shots and then retreated. Tito hushed it up to keep from alarming his people.

Will U.S.A. Fight?

What the Kremlin is banking on is the belief that the United States is not ready to risk war, will not intervene to help Tito. This is based partly on U. S. isolationism, partly on Moscow's plan to disguise the Tito attack as an internal revolt.

Thus the main problem confronting American diplomats has become: How to head off war by telling the Kremlin we would fight—though the final decision actually lies with Congress.

History shows that Hitler never would have invaded the Ruhr if he thought the French would have fought. He guessed right, France wouldn't fight at that time.

Again Hitler figured that the western allies would not fight if he invaded Austria, then Czechoslovakia. Again he guessed right. They didn't fight.

By that time Hitler was getting brash and bloodthirsty. Perhaps he might not have invaded Poland if he had thought the British would fight. In any event, he guessed wrong, and World War 2 began.

The situation may be the same regarding Yugoslavia. Its invasion may be a steppingstone to Greece, Turkey, Suez, Africa, India. We may not fight at first, but eventually we will. So the State Department figures it is better to be firm at first and let the Kremlin know exactly where we stand. That is what American diplomats faced this week in London.

Another Famous Simpson

Mayor William O'Dwyer, born in Ireland, who rose to be mayor of the world's greatest city after starting as a lowly Brooklyn cop, is now getting some subtle knifing from his fellow Irish.

"Be —!" say the New York Irish, "O'Dwyer trying to be a second Duke of Windsor."

They refer to the fact that the mayor is going to marry Miss Sloan Simpson, fashion consultant, whose marriage was annulled by the Pope.

But what the mayor's political opponents maliciously infer is that he has become a playboy, is marrying a woman who received an annulment, and worst of all in an Irishman's eyes, has become pro-British.

None of these things is true. O'Dwyer is just as democratic and down-to-earth as he was when he first set foot in this country forty years ago. But his enemies are playing the "Miss Simpson" angle for all it's worth.

More Navy Headaches

The navy has got itself into more political hot water—this time in the blue and sleepy waters of the Caribbean. The governor of Puerto Rico, Luis Munoz Marin, is so sore that he has decided to ask the recall of Adm. Dan Barbey, commander of the Caribbean Sea frontier.

What happened was that the U.S.A., while preaching democracy for France, Italy and the North Atlantic Pact countries, let the navy play footsie with one of the bloodiest dictators in all Latin America — President Trujillo of the Dominican republic.

Just as Adm. Richard Conolly got some U. S. diplomats sore by making a special courtesy cruise to visit Dictator Franco in Spain, so Admiral Barbey made a special courtesy call on Trujillo. Furthermore, he did so after Governor Munoz Marin had strongly advised against it.

Gov. Munoz Marin, educated at Georgetown University, U.S.A., is one of the best friends and cultural links the United States has with Latin America.

And he pointed out to Admiral Barbey that Dictator Trujillo had slaughtered hundreds of Haitians, had instituted a reign of terror, and that if the United States really believed in the democracy it talked about, so also should its navy.

Despite this, Barbey took his warships to call on the dictator. Afterward, Trujillo wanted to send his one warship on a return call to Puerto Rico. The State Department asked Governor Marin what he thought about it, then proceeded to ignore his advice and permitted the Dominican navy's visit. Whereupon, Admiral Barbey added insult to injury by asking the governor to give a reception for the visiting Dominican navy.

Instead the governor "went fishing." And the Dominican sailors were given a frosty reception by an acting governor. All of which has raised a furore in the Caribbean. On top of it all, Admiral Barbey has gone on the radio to denounce Governor Marin and his land-use policies, with the result that Marin has now decided to ask for the admiral's recall.

Removal of Denfeld Bound to Keep Chiefs of Staff From Giving Information

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 28—Although President Truman has sworn an oath to execute faithfully the laws of the land, he has just violated the spirit as well as the letter of an important act of Congress.

The law which was designed to unify the armed services has in it a paragraph that reads as follows:

"No provision of this act shall be so construed as to prevent a secretary of a military department or a member of the joint chiefs of staff from presenting to the Congress, on his own initiative, after first so informing the secretary of defense, any recommendation relating to the Department of Defense that he may deem proper."

Adm. Louis E. Denfeld as chief of naval operations and a member of the joint chiefs of staff, and responding to an invitation from the House Armed Services Committee, gave his recommendations concerning the defense policy of the nation. He had said the same things to the secretary of defense before. But because he spoke to Congress, he now has been removed from office.

This means that in the future no member of the joint chiefs of staff will risk his career in order to bring to Congress the information it needs to legislate on matters of national defense.

The issue is bigger now than the inter-service controversy that has raged in recent weeks. It is bigger than the question of whether Admiral Denfeld has been justly treated as an individual with a long record of service to his government. It is bigger than the question of whether one service should have this or that role or mission in our defense set-up.

It is really a question of whether a dictatorship by a clique in the executive branch of the government shall ignore and defy the will of the people's representatives—the Congress. Has the executive autocracy now grown so defiant that it can dominate the people's representatives and withhold from them information essential to the legislative process?

Witnesses who are employes of the executive agencies hereafter will fear to tell the truth to Congress lest they be punished. A milestone in the evolution of the American form of government has been reached. European forms of totalitarianism are being copied. For in Russia and Nazi Germany, they wanted only "yes men"—or else there was a "purge."

President Truman has blundered—but with his eyes wide open. He was warned by the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee and by its members, Republican and Democratic, that the cause of unification would not be promoted by reprisals upon witnesses. He chose to disregard such warnings. He acted on the advice of Secretary of Defense Johnson, who, of course, has a powerful influence over Mr. Truman and dominates him in matters of this kind. Mr. Johnson is the type who believes that harmony is achieved by "lopping off heads." It's a queer way to try to achieve harmony in a democracy.

If General Bradley as well as Admiral Denfeld and also Secretary Johnson and Secretary Matthews had been asked by the President to resign voluntarily so that there would be a whole new set-up in the defense department, the country might have swallowed such a move as perhaps a new approach.

General Bradley offended the entire United States Navy by calling the witnesses "Janey Dans" and by declaring them unwilling "to hit the line unless they could call the signals." If Admiral Denfeld's offense was plain-speaking, how can General Bradley preside over the joint chiefs of staff with such a blemish of partisanship and factlessness on his otherwise unsullied record of fairness? Will the morale of the navy be improved by punishing their chief—Admiral Denfeld?

Certainly Mr. Truman has given Congress something to worry about. Maybe he has paved the way for a major controversy in the January session. Perhaps a complete revision of the so-called unification law will be the result. If so, Admiral Denfeld will become in history a martyr to the cause of free government.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 27—Jack Lait, the editor of the New York Mirror and a great newspaperman, being invited to speak at the dinner of the Chicago Press Veterans on December 3, indulges in some reflections on a craft which I would call newspaperism, as distinguished from journalism, which he and most of the members of this association practiced in our gallus days. Arthur James Pegler, my father, now living in Tucson, was a member of that wild, wonderful crew, and Walter Howey was another. I think you could include Ben Hecht, although Hecht had pronounced "literary" leanings in those days and drew a cold and cynical bead on our passion for murder stories, big fires and hangings. He thought us naive if not juvenile. If you weren't sure of Mr. Howey's reality you would insist that some crazy liar just wrote him.

I came into the business in the summer of 1910 and no English broker, grocer or party hack, rising knee-sprung from the hassock at Buckingham, dubbed "Sir Knight," ever was prouder than I was when Ed Conkle, my first boss, gave me a fire-line badge one gloomy day soon after and sent me to the stockyards where Chief Horan and twenty-some of his firemen had been lost beneath a crumbled wall at the Morris plant. Jack Lait says, "The great conflagration of 1871 and the hanging of the anarchists had created interest in fires and executions far beyond their true values." But it is true, also, that our enormous fires furnished their own dramatics. In the dead of night the bell in the reporters' room at the City Hall would toll off the combinations, six, four, eight, three and repeat, six, four, eight, three, and someone roused from napping on a desk would thumb the box of cards showing the locations of the alarm boxes.

Usually, one of us knew what vulnerable works lay just about there, but a call to the precinct would put us right, if not. I can hear Jake Lingle, another cub of my class, who affectated a world-weary boredom with it all, saying, "Hello, Sarge: What's burning out there?"

If the box struck again, our ears did begin to come up and if it struck an alarm called a four-eleven, the meaning of which somehow I never learned, that meant a big fire and we went, though it meant waiting for street cars until all hours, because we had no taxis or few if any and those expensive and no expense accounts for such. Mr. Conkle once admonished Webb Miller that our people on the United Press weren't carriage trade when Webb, down at El Paso in the crazy pursuit of Pancho Villa, sent in a bill for a long jaunt into Chihuahua in a flivver.

Perhaps because the horses were slower than the motors and the fires got a start on the firemen, but also, perhaps, because so much of our city was crazy-built in a boom after the great Chicago fire, we were always having big ones. The men would seem to have things in hand and you could hear their voices in the dark and the blows of axes and clatter of glass when a sudden wind would blow through the roof and walls would chase you a city block as they fell. Many of those fire-trap structures still stand though, and the Horace Greeley School, that was old when I matriculated in 1904, is still in use so conflagrations are likely, aren't they?

It never occurred to us then that, as Jack Lait says, Chicago was really a frontier settlement, although a metropolis. But the time elapsed since the Great Fire when I arrived there as a boy was much less than the time since. Yet there were no signs of the Fire and the only mementoes of this prehistoric disaster were kept in a saloon on the north side alongside Lincoln Park called the Relic House. I believe that the civilization and manners of the community must have improved greatly by then. Rough and rude as Chicago was in the first decade of this century we who lived there then saw nothing comparable to the horrible beastliness and vice, the dirt and crime depicted in recollections of that era. It sounded like London before Dickens.

Still we had our "districts" south and west, and barrel-houses and indescribable flops for harvest and railroad hands in winter and our own eyes may not have seen our own conditions as they were.

Hangings were great stories and I believe my father must have

THE PASSIONATE JOURNEY
By Irving Stone—387 pages

Since Art Week is to be celebrated the first week in November with an exhibit at the library, this seems to be a suitable time to review this book. Written by the author of "Lust for Life," a biography of Vincent van Gogh, this novel tells about the tortured struggle of John Noble, American painter to bring to perfection his ardent desire for self-expression through his art.

The story starts in Wichita, Kansas where John, son of a successful real estate operator, was born. His early years there were spent between alternating spells of painting followed by deep frustration and terrific drinking bouts. Discouraged with his efforts he destroyed all of his paintings. Only one survived—a large canvas portraying "Cleopatra at the Bath," ordered by the owners of the largest saloon in town to hang back of their ornate bar. It remained there until wrecked by Carrie Nation. John said that proved her to be quite an art critic. Soon after that John was convinced that he could not realize his ambition in Wichita and decided, overnight, that he must go to Paris. His father agreed to finance him. His lovely English mother gave him a silver North Star to guide him. Even Frances, his childhood sweetheart, gave him up for the sake of his career—but she loved him all her life.

He made his Paris debut in true wild western style entering the Beaux Arts Ball on horseback, wearing his big white Stetson and creating consternation mixed with admiration when he shot out the lights with his six-shooter and wrecked the ballroom. Soon after that he found himself at home among kindred spirits in the "Ruche," a huge barn near fortifications left over from the Paris World's Fair and remodeled into artist's quarters. There were many talented young artists there, all were young and hopeful, but for some life was rather grim. Many were half starved. One lived on one egg a day which he cooked by holding a lighted newspaper under it. Through them John learned of the American Art Association and there grew to know Alexander Harrison, George Luks, Charles Hawthorne, Matisse, Picasso, Rouault, Braque, Duchamp, (who did the startling "Nude descending a Staircase") and others. Although he did some outstanding work in Paris he failed to measure up to his own high standards and soon he went back to his old routine. First destroying his paintings and then going off onto long drawn-out sprees, ending with unconsciousness from which he was nursed back to health and sanity by Maud, a tiny French model who was devoted to him, even to the extent of buying for him the wedding ring for Amelia whom he married in Strasbourg after a whirlwind courtship.

That marriage was for a long time a stabilizing influence. He stopped drinking and for three years while they lived in Brittany he did his best work. Producing among others "Toilers of the Sea," "Blue Moonlight," "Low Tide," and "Land's End." These won him official recognition of the important French and American shows.

When the war came, they went to England. There they were warmly received by John's aunts, given a house in London and introduced to London celebrities of the Art World. But as usual cities stifled him. He could not paint there so, turning his back on the English family and estates, he went with Amelia and their little son to Provincetown. There again his genius flowered and he spent several happy, productive years and fostered the Provincetown Art Association.

Then he was awarded first prize for his painting "Brittany Moonlight" by the famous old Salmagundi Club and asked to come to New York to receive the award in person. That trip ended with a permanent slip back into his old alcoholic habits. Through it all Amelia was an angel of understanding and forbearance, ministering to him whenever he managed to crawl home, searching for him in hospital wards or the city jails or dives, when he did not. Shielding him, loving him until the swift pace finally undermined his magnificent physique. The Passionate Journey ended, but the beauty he created remain.

Arraigned before General Sessions Judge Jacob Gould Schurman, on a three-count indictment, Frugone was continued in $2,000 and Georgins in $1,000 bail. They were given two weeks to present motions.

covered forty of them. Cubs all wanted to cover them and put in for such duty, but I never caught one nor any other execution then or since.

Chicago reporters were a distinct and different breed. New York reporters wore canes and spats and had ethics, and manners, and we called them journalists with a sneer. I suppose we had some verbotens which served as ethics, but with us the story was the end that justified the means. Unlike the New Yorkers, the Chicago reporters fought, tricked and, to be honest about it, hated one another. In New York they met by appointment and traded information and when I was breaking in here I received much help from the stars on ship news who would spread out over the big liners coming in and come together at a lunching table as we eased up to the pier. It was the same on crime and winter league baseball. The New Yorkers didn't ask you where you came from or what your paper was. You just poked an ear into the huddle and listened. When you had learned your way around you did as much for the next cubs.

I believe the two distinct systems still prevail in Chicago and New York. It seems to be in the air or the soil. Years later I was to hear professional football players express the thought that really underlay the New York system. Why should they, with families to support, kill or maim one another to gratify the owners of the franchises and swell their profits? Good, clean sport was their motto, and live to play another day.

Pitching Horseshoes

The Two-Ton Glare

On November 14, Eleanor and I will have been married ten years, and so, in the tradition of column-writing husbands, here's the inevitable piece on the care, feeding and all-round domestication of the male animal. . . .

During the first couple of years, when my missus was displeased with something I did, she used to tell me so in so many words. But for a long time now Eleanor has been using a much more effective technique—the Withering Heights look—the lingo of the lashes—the two-ton glare. This method of communication, as all husbands know, is strictly a one-way language, more economical than French and more compressed than Chinese, and it bears a striking similarity to the idiom used by humans in speaking of canines, as in "Down, Rover," and "Jump, Fritz."

It is Sunday morning and our week-end guests are already at breakfast. I come downstairs wearing a floppy bathrobe and a night's growth of five-o'clock shadow Eleanor gives me the look. Translated, it means, "Once a Bowery bum, always a Bowery bum. What are we running here, a flophouse with a fringe on top?" I say nothing, but the next Sunday morning I'm wearing a sport coat, and my fingers are manicured down to the second joint.

Or, I tag along with Mrs. R. to a ladies' dress shop where a salesman trots out an evening gown with a Paris label and a Paris price. I flap my lips experimentally. Eleanor turns on the eye-fire. Translation: "Hold your tongue and horses, Junior. It's my allowance money I'm spending—and what do you know about women's clothes anyhow? I've seen the way you dress girls in your shows and anything beyond a G-string is bound to strike you as sheer extravagance. Smile pretty at the salesman." And so, being the captain of my soul, I smile pretty.

Or, we get out of a cab in front of a restaurant and I start for the door. Suddenly I feel Eleanor's eyes in the nape of my neck. "Easy does it, Buster," they say. "I'm going through that door first if I have to drag you behind me on a leash. Come back and offer your arm before I twist it off." I casually saunter in after my wife, wondering if the leash is showing.

Last week we had several people to dinner, including the Deems Taylors. In came the vichyssoisse and into the vichyssoisse I went. Eleanor's glare hit me right where I choke. "Where are your manners?" it said. "Don't you know it's dangerous to approach a body of liquid like that without a diving helmet? Besides, where do you get the nerve to make such noises with an eminent music critic like Deems Taylor at the table?"

My decade with Baby has taught me one thing: If you can grow a back like a turtle, two can live as chipper as one; in other words, providing you're house- and spirit-broken, bliss is a streetcar named connubial.

Am I putting the whammy on wedlock? Heck, no. If my favorite looker stopped giving me those looks, I'd be as jittery as a canary which escapes from its cage and then wonders how it can get back in again.

Living Costs

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—New government living cost figures come out today and most officials expected them to show a slight rise. The index, prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, hasn't moved one way or another very much all this year. The last index figure, reflecting August living cost, was 168.8 (based on a 1935-39 average as 100). Last February it was 170.9. That August figure compared with the nation's peak living cost of 174.5 in August-September, 1948.

Kiwanis to Begin Drills for Kapers Sunday Afternoon

This year's edition of Kiwanis Kapers will go into rehearsal Sunday afternoon, it was announced by Maynard Mizel, committee chairman, at the regular Kiwanis luncheon Thursday.

The variety show will be performed for the public Monday and Tuesday nights, November 28 and 29, at Kingston High School. Proceeds go toward the Kiwanis youth program.

For the first time in the history of the annual event, this year will see the show built around a "thread of a story," according to Ronald B. Herrick of the Kapers committee. The story will be that of a young radio producer ordered to produce a top-notch show on short notice.

With this theme, the Kapers committee have listed a number of fast-moving acts including comedy and musical numbers, a "soap opera" and a breakfast table program, recipes and morning exercise programs. Participants in the acts are members of the Kiwanis Club. Harry Maisenhelder and his orchestra will provide music and Miss Elizabeth La Tour will play the female lead opposite Kiwanian Howard C. St. John.

Sunday's rehearsal will be held at 3 p. m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Broadway.

London Air Crash Kills 4 Americans

London, Oct. 28 (AP) — Four Americans, including two officials of the Superior Oil Co., were killed today when a twin-engine amphibian plane crashed and burned taking off from London Airport.

Two Britishers aboard the plane were killed in the crash. There was one survivor, an American member of the crew.

The American dead were identified as:

Robert Allen, about 45, vice president in charge of Superior's foreign operations, Los Angeles; James Lewis, 40, attorney, Los Angeles; Capt. Joseph Jordan, the plane's pilot, San Fernando, Calif., Andrew Cole, wireless operator, Long Beach, Calif.

The surviving co-pilot, Earl Oscar Sivage, was hurled 50 feet from the plane. He was taken to West Middlesex Hospital where a physician said he had extensive burns on his face and legs but there was no anxiety over his condition.

The plane was used on a shuttle run between London and the Near East. It was owned by the oil company, which has headquarters in Los Angeles. The Royal Dutch Air Lines (K.L.M.) acted as agents for the aircraft, an American Grumman Mallard.

One witness said the "plane seemed to get into some sort of trouble but the pilot appeared to be trying to land her. Then she bumped and burst into flames."

Airport officials believed an engine cut out before the plane could gain height.

Prisoners' Song

Deer Lodge, Mont. (AP)—When violinist David Rubinoff played recently for prisoners at the Montana state penitentiary one of the popular request numbers was "Don't Fence Me In."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Traders operated in highly selective fashion in today's stock market.

Price changes were limited mostly to fractions although there were a couple of exceptions, notably Chrysler with a rise of 2 points.

Trading got off to a boiling start. Big blocks of stock changed hands rapidly but price action was limited. The market tried hard to get ahead but soon gave up the attempt and a good many of the initial gains were trimmed or eliminated entirely.

Business slowed and the market settled into a narrow groove.

President Truman's statement, made after the close of the market yesterday, that a national emergency in the coal and steel strikes was a long way off, evidently gave traders something to think about.

The market's action recently has indicated that quick settlement of the strikes was widely anticipated. Presidential intervention has been expected as a last recourse but the President's statement was interpreted to mean that he had no intention of trying to settle the strikes in the immediate future.

Chrysler's two-point jump followed an increased dividend and excellent earnings report.

Britain's Labor Party Is Pushing Economic Program

Labor Wins Parliament Vote of Confidence Despite Growing Opposition

By EDWIN SHANKE

London, Oct. 28 (AP)—Shaken by the largest vote yet mustered against it in Parliament, Britain's Labor Government pushed ahead today with its economy program to avert national bankruptcy.

The two-day Parliament debate on the government's program reached its climax last night with the Laborites defeating a Conservative motion to censure the cabinet's economy plans as inadequate.

The vote was 353 to 222.

The Labor total was 40 short of the party's full parliamentary strength. Some Labor members of Parliament were absent due to illness. A few were abroad. Some presumably just did not show up for the important vote.

Some Labor opinion has shared the opposition view that Prime Minister Attlee took only half measures when he ordered an eight per cent cut in the nation's spending plans.

Backed by the Liberals, the Liberal Nationals and most of the 14 Independent M.P.'s, the Conservatives rallied 10 more votes than ever before were cast against the Attlee regime. The result, nevertheless, was a go-ahead for the belt-tightening program.

The Conservatives abstained from a second vote, on a government motion of confidence. Labor won it 337 to 5.

The London Press today refrained from commenting on the vote. The London Times parliamentary correspondent, however, said, "This debate, like that on devaluation last month, developed a strong electioneering atmosphere and the lines of battle in the coming appeal to the country are being ever more firmly drawn."

A general election is due sometime before next July, when the Labor Government's term of office expires.

"A telegram from Santa Maria, received at 1710 French Standard Time, (11:10 a. m., E.S.T.) said that the rescue party which had been sent there announced they had found the wreckage of the plane. There were no survivors."

Earlier air France had said it had received a message from "a search plane which had sighted the wreckage on San Miguel, the largest island of the Azores, some 90 miles from Santa Maria.

Company officials said they had no idea what had happened to prevent the plane from landing at Santa Maria. However, the weather was bad at the time, they said.

Also among the passengers were a Mr. Kay Kamen and Mrs. Kate Kamen, described as commercial managers of the Walt Disney Co. A Kay Kamen heads a firm known as Kay Kamen, Ltd., which licenses the use of Disney characters for commercial use. The Disney Company in Los Angeles said the two are from New York city.

Sure to Win Title

Cerdan was gay when he boarded the plane at Orly Airfield yesterday. Just before taking off, he telephoned his wife at Casablanca, Morocco, and said: "I promise you I'll bring back the world title." His wife and two children live on a farm outside Casablanca. The Moroccan city was shocked by the news of the plane crash. A cafe run there by Cerdan did not open for business, although scores of the boxer's friends clamored outside for news of the accident.

The Constellation was last heard from at 9:50 p. m., E.S.T., last night when the pilot radioed he was ready to land at Santa Maria in five minutes. Then for eight hours there was no word. Planes and boats set out to look for the missing craft.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Oct. 28—The fall quarterly meeting of the Highland Council of Church Women was held Tuesday evening with Mrs. Stanley Jones at the Methodist parsonage. Mrs. Oscar Jelsma, president of the Council, presided. After joint devotions by the president and Mrs. Louis E. Smith, the usual agenda of business and reports of this cooperative body was taken up.

The World Community Day program will be held November 4 in the Methodist Church at 2:15 p. m. Pieces for Peace is the title of the work for this day. The cooperation of anyone in the community is urged in this work of fellowship. The Council will provide the piece of blue denim to wrap the packages. This, with dimensions, directions, etc., may be obtained from Mrs. Jelsma. An offering at the dedication meeting will defray the cost of shipping the packages through Church World Service to fellow Christians in need at home and abroad. Each package is to contain pieces of woolen or cotton cloth, yarn, sewing materials, crochet cotton, etc. and a few good garments. Last year Towels for Teen Agers was the project. A letter has come to the president from Nasa Komoto, secretary of the Women's Auxiliary of Christian churches in Northeast Japan. The appreciation of gifts sent last year was no less warm than the eagerness for "days to come soon for us Japanese to be able to stand by our own feet without depending upon your sympathy all the time." An urgent appeal for clothing contributions has again been made. The Council went on record as accepting all contributions of salvage clothing for Church World Service. Mrs. Jacob Schuhle, Mrs. Joseph Mellor and Mrs. Clarence Rathgeb are the committee in charge. Mrs. Rathgeb volunteered to have packing meetings at her home.

New voting members welcome at this meeting were Mrs. Leon Burnett, Mrs. Albert Thompson, Mrs. Louis E. Smith. Mrs. Thompson reported on ways and means to increase the local council treasury. Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Jones are a committee to arrange for money raising parties to enable the local council to discharge obligations to the state and national council, shipping of World Service packages and expenses of Released Time Religious Education. Mrs. A. W. Lent reported for the latter; the Rev. Stanley Jones, eighth grade class of 25 pupils; the Rev. Harold Sweezey, seventh grade of 17 pupils; Mrs. Lent, seventh grade class of 18 pupils and Mrs. Jelsma, sixth grade class. If one helper and one substitute for a combination class of fifth and sixth grades under Mrs Jelsma can be found, this additional instruction will be given. From the eighth grade, 15 pupils are already enrolled. As of October 25 pupils are enrolled and the fee is 40 cents to pay for books and films.

The southeast zone of the state held its teachers' conference in New York today. Schools will be closed so that teachers may attend. Dr Willard E. Goslin, superintendent of schools in Pasadena, Calif., is the speaker.

The Republican Club holds its meeting next Thursday evening in the town clerks office. William Churchill will report on a proposed rally.

Principal A. Herbert Campbell and W. H. Maynard, president of the Board of Education, attended the State School Boards Association meeting in Syracuse over the week-end. Mr. Maynard returned Sunday while Mr Campbell remained for the closing dinner and session Tuesday.

Miss Eleanor Flint, local public health nurse, is in New York to attend a medical meeting.

Mrs. William J. Upright left Thursday for Hartford, Conn., to spend a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Soule.

Mrs. Harry Hovet attended the meeting and opening of the tumor clinic in Kingston. She represented the local nurse committee.

15-Minute Checkup

Each got a chest X-ray, blood test and urinalysis. It took 15 minutes for each worker.

Thirteen were found to have unsuspected tuberculosis, diabetes, or diseases of the heart, blood vessels, or kidneys. Another 16 were found to have diseases that had been diagnosed before. But, some of these persons had stopped getting treatments.

This trial was conducted jointly by Dr. C. Kelly Canelo, a private physician representing the county medical society; Dr. Dwight Bissell, San Jose city health officer; Dr. Herbert Abrams of the state health department, and Dr. Breslow.

The combined tests have many advantages, Dr. Breslow said:

1. The screening tests can be given by technicians, saving the time of physicians for diagnosis and treatment of the people found to have some trouble. The tests are only a screening device, to detect people who may be ill, and then send them to their own doctors for final diagnosis and treatment.

2. The multiple tests wouldn't take much longer than a single visit to a clinic that tests for only one disease.

3. There would be savings in money for health departments and voluntary tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes or other groups interests in preventing specific diseases. There would be less duplication of trained personnel, facilities, test equipment, and overhead expenses.

4. Your family doctor could get a profile of your health status, as shown by the tests. It is much less expensive to have mass X-rays or other tests than to pay for them individually.

WHY does the costly steel strike continue?

The costly and unnecessary steel strike is now in its fourth week. The country at large is beginning to feel its disastrous effects. Employees and employers have already suffered serious financial losses. The situation will grow worse if the strike continues.

This strike was ordered by Philip Murray, President of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO). He and his Union must accept full responsibility for the strike and its damaging consequences. United States Steel did not want a strike and tried hard to prevent it.

More than three weeks have elapsed, and no proposal of any kind has been made to us by the Union for a settlement of the strike. On the contrary, the Union stubbornly adheres to its original ultimatum that we must agree in advance to pay the entire cost of insurance and pensions for our employees. That is the only issue. Unconditional surrender by us to this ultimatum is the price which the Union demands to call off its strike.

In an endeavor to negotiate with the Union a sound and fair program of insurance and pensions, United States Steel offered to pay up to 10c an hour per employee (more than $50,000,000 a year) toward the cost of insurance and pension benefits, the employees to make some additional contribution. This 10c was the amount which the Presidential Fact-Finding Board recommended we should pay. Our offer was flatly refused by the Union. It insists that we must pay the entire cost of such insurance and pensions.

The insurance program proposed by United States Steel would provide greater welfare benefits for our employees at less cost than our average employee is today paying under existing insurance and welfare plans. Therefore, our proposed insurance program will not reduce his take-home pay.

We have had long experience with an employee-pay-nothing (non-contributory) pension plan. We found it necessary to adopt a contributory pension plan ten years ago. More than 60,000 of our employees today participate in this contributory plan.

Contributory Social Security Has These Advantages:

1. Larger insurance benefits and pensions are provided

When the employee and the company both contribute, the larger contributions permit better social security benefits.

2. A contributory plan is safer

Company pay-all plans are uncertain. There may some day be no money or no company. Employees suffer, if the plan fails. Furthermore, the contributing employee has a direct interest in the success of the plan. He will then strive to keep the plan financially sound and within proper bounds.

3. Contributory plans provide savings for employees

The employees' contributions go into a fund, along with the company's contribution. In effect, it is a savings account for the employee's own welfare. Under the usual contributory pension plan, if the employee dies before retirement, his family gets his pension contributions with interest. If he quits, he gets them back with interest.

Under a contributory plan, an employee always has something saved up for his protection. Putting aside savings is not a wage reduction.

4. Today's work provides tomorrow's welfare benefits

Under a contributory plan both the company and the employee lay aside something for the employee's future welfare and security. It is not the American way to ask for hand-outs or something for nothing.

5. A contributory plan is a voluntary plan

A contributory plan ordinarily gives the employee a choice. He can take it, or leave it. The inducement to join the contributory plan is two-fold. The employee is paying some of his own money for his protection and for his old age, and, if he is willing to do that, the company will more than match all he puts up in order to give him greater benefits.

Many People Know...

- That Federal Social Security is contributory.
- That the U. S. Government and most States have contributory pension plans.
- That many cities (including New York City) have contributory pension plans.
- That railroad pensions are contributory.
- That the majority of plans in American business are contributory.

But Few People Realize...

- That many of our employees tell us in letters that they want to contribute to a sound insurance and pension plan.
- That Philip Murray approved contributions by employees when he advised the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives in Washington on April 12, 1949:

"As to financing, our members have been willing to pay their due share of the cost of social insurance."

- That the House Ways and Means Committee in August 1949 reported to Congress:

"The time has come to reaffirm the basic principle that a contributory system of social insurance in which workers share directly in meeting the cost of the protection afforded is the most satisfactory way of preventing dependency."

- That our employees have already lost more pay in this strike than their contributions toward a contributory insurance and pension plan fund would total in a whole year.
- That this is not a popular strike with many of our employees.
- That the real explanation of the steel strike is rivalry between labor union leaders — a desire by one labor union monopolist to outdo another.

Union politics are not a just or sufficient cause for the present steel strike — costly to the public, the employees, and the steel companies alike.

OUR POSITION: United States Steel favors a proper and financially sound program of insurance and pensions for its employees. We welcome an opportunity to negotiate a program of this character with the Union. As evidence of our sincerity, we have made an offer to the Union to pay more than $50,000,000 a year as our share of the cost.

Wife—Y-y-your m-m-mother has insulted me!

Husband (calming her)—How could she? She's in Chicago?

Husband (sternly)—Yes?

Wife—And she wrote this at the b-b-bottom: "Dear Mary, be sure to show this to George!"

Boy—But they say, dear, that two can live as cheaply as one.

Easterner—What are you raising? What's your main crop?

Farmer—Hogs.

Easterner—Hogs? Do they pay better than corn or tobocco?

Farmer—Well, no. I can't say they do. But, hogs don't need no plowing.

Report-card day called forth the usual protest from Dad. And he concluded:

Dad—Next report-card day I should like to see you as near the head of your class as you are now near the foot.

Junior (impatiently) — Aw? They teach the both things at both places.

Young Father—In your sermon this morning you spoke about a baby being a new wave on the ocean of life.

Minister—That's right. Do you think a fresh squall would have been nearer the truth?

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

As the end of October approaches, the economy enters the danger zone. The steel strike will tie industry in knots before many more days. The stock market, however, refuses to "scare"—see comment below.

The coal strike is equally serious. However, everyone appears less concerned about coal than about steel. The reason is not hard to find.

John L. Lewis, the arrogant head of the United Mine Workers, has misplayed his hand for a second time. He is caught in a corner and cannot worm his way out. The coal operators, the miners, the White House and the public all seem for once to be against tough old John L. It calls to mind another famous John L., of fistic history. He met his downfall, too, but never lost his braggadocio.

The way things are shaping up in the coal strike I may have to backtrack on a statement made recently that "unions always win the strikes." In this particular case, even the workers may be privately happy if Lewis is beaten.

There are many sides to these labor controversies. Not the least interesting is the fact that Mr. Truman may have to use his much-hated Taft-Hartley law to settle with Lewis.

In the steel situation the Ruminator is inclined to be cynical. It looks very much, from where I sit, up here in relaxed Vermont, that no very serious efforts have been made since the steel workers walked out to settle the arguments. It has the appearance of playing for time until the situation becomes dramatic. If the President forces a show-down—say this week, or next—when automobile companies and other plants are about to slow down, his stepping into the breach will be politically front-page stuff.

Much can be made of it. If the settlement waits until the last moment—until everyone is sitting on the edge of their seats.

You will see, I am sure, that all demands and dramatic name-calling will be focussed on the steel companies—U. S. Steel, in particular. I don't believe you will read that the White House has asked Phil Murray to get busy and settle the strike—but you will probably hear of more telegrams sent to Benjamin Fairless of U. S. Steel. Doubtless you saw about the wire Mayor O'Dwyer of New York sent to Fairless. Obviously, it was only a political sharp trick to get headlines while he is campaigning for reelection. O'Dwyer hasn't any more business butting into the steel strike than I have. To make cheap publicity he included questions like these in his long telegram: "Is this a matter of principle or bullheadedness? . . . I ask you, Mr. Fairless, is this the kind of issue on which to paralyze the economy of this country?"

Would O'Dwyer ask Murray these questions? The answer is obvious.

When the time is politically right, it is a fair guess that the President—who is vitally concerned with 1950 congressional elections—will berate the steel companies and order them to come to terms to save the economy. Then, doubtless he will send a message to the annual convention of the C.I.O. (meeting in Cleveland next week), praising them for their stalwart support of the welfare (police) state.

The Stock Market

It is puzzling to many how the stock market has held up in the face of the industrial slow-down. It has been most instructive from a contrary-opinion viewpoint. The market certainly has been acting contrary—but quite within the "rules of the game." The market commonly does the unexpected.

The "unexpected" next to look for would be further contrariness when the strikes are settled. Continuation of a strong bull market will be anticipated. From a contrary standpoint, it would be well to watch out that the market does not "do the opposite"—after a brief celebration. It would not be surprising if a strike-settlement rally were to mark the end of the fourth-month upward swing in stock prices. Indications have become clear that the public is once again stock-minded. The Ruminator, therefore, alters the bullish tune he has been playing for the last many months. It would appear that the time is near to turn contrary to present Wall Street enthusiasm.

Taking Care of Elders

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—State Senator Thomas C. Desmond, who wants better treatment for aging folks, says "you can go to college now to learn how to grow old successfully." The Newburgh Republican, who is 62, reported yesterday that he was encouraged because "grandma and grandpa are becoming objects of serious study for the first time in the history of higher education." Desmond is chairman of the joint legislative committee on problems of the aging. He said a survey of 466 colleges showed that students were being taught "how to adjust' to their elders, how to take better care of oldsters and how to prepare themselves for later maturity."

Haver's Building Ready for Tenants

Remodeling of the former Forsyth mansion at Pearl and Fair streets has been practically completed and is ready for occupancy by tenants.

Former District Attorney N. Le Van Haver, who bid in the property at public auction about a year ago, is moving his offices today. Mr. Haver, with Charles Gaffney and Richard Overbagh, will occupy a suite of offices on the first floor. Also, on the first floor will be the office of the Ulster County Republican Committee, and the law offices of John Egan. All of these offices are now occupied by the tenants.

Dr. John P. Reading will move his dental offices to the second floor on Monday where he will occupy a suite of offices. Frank Campochiaro has already moved his law offices as has Architect Augustus Schrowang. On Monday the insurance offices of Allan L. Hanstein, Inc., will open at the 41 Pearl street address, occupying a suite of offices on the second floor.

The third floor has been remodeled into an apartment for a caretaker and one tenant.

Dr. Frederic Holcomb, Jr., who is practicing temporarily from the offices of his father at 188 Fair street, will move his offices to the Pearl street address as soon as alterations have been completed to the basement.

Czechs Defend Crosby Against Attack by Reds

Prague, Oct. 28 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's cold war on American hot jazz ran into a home front defense of Bing Crosby last night.

Ardent Czech Communist youths have been campaigning against jazz and jitterbugging, which they say are examples of decadent western culture.

Last night at a Prague concert of Crosby records, an announcer called Bing a "greedy American money-seeker who sacrifices his art for gold." The crowd—which had stood in line for an hour to pack the 200-seat theatre to overflowing—replied with a storm of angry shouts and whistles.

"And, politically," the announcer continued, "this Crosby stands for nothing that could be identified with the principles of Jefferson or Lincoln." From the audience came more boos and cries of "pfui."

"Frank Sinatra is much better but they (the Americans) wouldn't give him a chance," the commentator said. The audience ignored that one.

The program had been advertised as an all-Crosby evening. But the final number—"Irish Lullaby"—turned out to be a recording by a Czech singer. That provoked a last noisy outburst of protest from the crowd.

Furnace Causes Fire

Firemen were called by a box alarm at 12:02 a. m. today to the home of Thomas Qualtaire, 29 Brewster street, where an overheated furnace had caused a slight fire. Another alarm at 3:35 p. m. Thursday was for a rubbish fire between a garage and shed at 60 Franklin street. The blaze slightly damaged a window sill of the garage.

Snyder Talks To Rotary Club

Frederic Snyder, lecturer and news analyst, spoke before the Rotary Club Wednesday. Brief highlights of his talk follow:

Temptation today would be to talk in these few minutes on politics, but instead a few observations on the national scene.

The drama of the hour is simply this, "The tension is over a pension." All industry in the United States is practically paralyzed over this pension. This is an amazing thing, yet a tragic one. It boils down to this, "Shall we have security for the asking or security for the earning?" America has always earned its security in the past. Management and labor are in error on this issue.

Your freedom today is given to you in 24-hour capsules, with no thought to continuity. Freedom recently has come to countries that by some stroke of fate have their names begin with the letter "I." Israel, with a free parliament and dear old Ireland after many years now free. India after literally millions have died, now on its own. Indonesia now extremely near to independence. Just as these little countries and great ones are just getting their freedom, we are about to lose ours. Our word "Independence" also in our English language index begins with the letter "I."

Mr. Snyder briefly mentioned that Stalin has a more potent weapon than the atomic bomb at his fingertips—a "life quake." The power to have millions upon millions of people of China, India and Russia to flow into Alaska, to Canada and down through our borders. America needs to wake up and unite. The fact is that 94 per cent does not live in these United States.

No atomic bomb exists, never has, we have a fissionable material. Man has now let loose a power far greater than his moral capacity to control. This so-called atomic bomb race brings Africa into the news as it has large stores of uranium near the surface.

We must reach for a power greater than this fissionable material which is solar radiation. It is hoped that it shall be used for constructive purposes.

In spite of the sorry news I am an invincible optimist. All darkness is limited; you can measure darkness with a meter. There is no measurement of light; light is limitless and God is light. There is no limit to joy and life. It shall either be God's best world or man's worst world.

Judges Like Bromley

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—The 13 living past presidents of the State Bar Association think Associate Judge Bruce Bromley is "pre-eminently qualified" for the Court of Appeals seat he holds. An association committee on selection of candidates for judicial office said Monday that both Bromley and Justice Charles W. Froessel of State Supreme Court were "well qualified" for the Court of Appeals post. Bromley is the Republican candidate and Froessel the Democratic-Liberal candidate for the election November 8. The past presidents agreed that Froessel was "well qualified." But, they said in a statement yesterday, Bromley "by his career at the bar and his conspicuous service on the Court of Appeals since his appointment is pre-eminently qualified." Bromley is serving an interim term by appointment of Governor Dewey.

Barkley Calls For Election of Herbert Lehman

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Given a big sendoff by Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, other prominent Democrats and labor leaders, former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman bid for suburban votes today in the metropolitan area windup of his U. S. Senate campaign.

An audience of 18,000 whooped it up for Lehman at a trade union rally last night at Madison Square Garden.

Mayor William O'Dwyer, Democratic candidate for re-election, also was praised by Barkley and other speakers at the rally.

Lehman, Democratic and Liberal party candidate against Republican Senator John Foster Dulles, told the crowd that "radical and Socialistic" charges hurled at him would not stop his fight for liberal measures.

Barkley called for the election of Lehman on the basis of his sympathy and work for the masses and because of his adherence to the Democratic platform pledges of 1948.

Barkley said President Truman is interested in the election of Lehman and Mayor O'Dwyer.

The rally was attended by officials of the A.F.L., C.I.O. and road Brotherhoods, who made local political history by their unified effort.

C.I.O. President Philip Murray, who came here from a C.I.O. meeting in Cleveland to speak for Lehman and O'Dwyer, said they "have supported every piece of enlightened labor legislation in all their public acts."

The two candidates, Murray declared, have followed "the sound principle that what is good for labor is good for the city, state and nation."

To emphasize the solidarity of major organized labor groups in support of Lehman and O'Dwyer, three representatives of the C.I.O, A.F.L, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen served as co-chairmen of the rally.

Among speakers were Mrs. Franklin D Roosevelt, her son, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. (Dem.-Liberal); Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the C.I.O. Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America; Richard F. Walsh, president of the A.F.L. International Alliance of Theatre and Stage Employes, and Mayor O'Dwyer.

Lehman's campaign schedule today was in Westchester county.

Wrong Bomb Information

Pearl Harbor, Oct. 28 (AP)—Cmdr. John S. McCain, Jr., said yesterday he was misquoted in an Associated Press dispatch reporting submarine-launched guided missiles could carry an atomic bomb. The dispatch dealt with a navy announcement of plans to launch the missiles from two submarines off Hawaii November 7. The reporter understood McCain to say the missiles could carry the bomb. McCain denied this. "The fact is," he added, "I don't know anything about the atom bomb. In my naval experience, I've never had anything to do with atomic experiments." McCain is in charge of submarine guided missile development.

Will Honor Mrs. F.D.R.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Elennor Roosevelt will receive an award tomorrow for her United Nations work. The Upper New York State Council of B'nai B'rith will give the former first lady its annual distinguished service award, President William Fineman announced last night. The The Jewish fraternal organization cited Mrs Roosevelt for "outstanding leadership in the American delegation to the United Nations." International President Frank Goldman of Lowell, Mass., will present the award at her Hyde Park home.

Economist Lauds Amalgamated for Wage Bill Fight

Hyman Bookbinder, economist and assistant director of research of Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, was the guest speaker at the meeting of Local 186, A.C.W.A. Wednesday night at the the Moose Hall, Broadway. The meeting was held on the auspicious date of the signing by President Truman of the 75 cents minimum wage law.

Bookbinder pointed out during his talk that one of the three labor leaders invited by the president to witness the minimum wage signing was Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. He said that Amalgamated has been one of the most vital forces in the fight for a higher minimum which now becomes effective January 25.

The speaker stated that the new minimum will mean the elimination of southern competition, will help to keep work in this area, enable labor to keep the gains they have made.

Stating that labor must be politically active and give support to legislators who will work for measures such as this one, the speaker went on to explain the importance of the New York state senatorial race.

"On the basis of his outstanding record, every Union has endorsed the candidacy of Herbert H. Lehman," he continued. "Lehman is pledged to work for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law, he is for expanded Social Security, Federal Aid to education, he supports President Truman's fair deal program."

Feeling that it is the duty of the Union to acquaint the members with the issues and the voting records of candidates, Kingston Local 186 has launched an intensive educational campaign under the direction of Business Agent Mabel L. Fisher, President Thomas J. Murray and a Political Action Committee of which John Terpening is chairman.

"Much has been done through legislation," Business Agent Fisher said. "Twelve years ago we had neither unemployment insurance, Social Security or a minimum wage. However, every time labor has made a gain, it is by a legislative act that it can be wiped out. We must send to office the people who are interested in the welfare of the millions of working people of our country."

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

DON'T KEEP GUESTS WAITING TOO LONG

A letter today says: "Whenever I have guests in for late evening supper I use lap trays for serving and find them most practical. However, I am always in doubt as to whether I should get up and remove the trays of the guests who have finished eating or wait until I have finished before doing this. I am rather a slow eater and most of the guests are through before I am."

It is true that you can't very well finish first when you begin eating last, therefore, you could expect them to wait a short while for you. But if you really take much longer than they, you will have to eat faster or much less—or you might eat a little something before they come so that you won't be so hungry.

Don't Just 'Bring Him Along'

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for a girl to invite a man she knows to go with her to a wedding to which she alone has been invited? I think not, but several of the girls here in the office seem to think that it is taken for granted that they may invite their boy friends to go with them if they would like to.

Answer: It is proper that a girl bring her fiance, but not just a friend.

Again That 'Jr.' Question

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be correct to name my baby son John Henry, II, after his father? My husband was killed in an automobile accident just before the baby was born. I am told it would not be proper to call him Jr., since his father is not living, but would it be all right to call him "second"?

Answer: I'm sorry, but this is one of the most awkward situations in all of etiquette. There is no name for him except John Henry and no solution other than the necessity of adding "Sr." to your name. In other words, it would be much better to give him a separate middle name. For example you could be Mrs. John Henry and he could be John Arthur Henry.

'Greatest Statesman'

Dunkirk, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—Sen. John Foster Dulles (R-N.Y.) is "the only thread of continuity in our foreign policy," according to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey declared last night at a Republican rally that he regarded Dulles as "the greatest statesman of our time." The governor returned to Albany today after a whirlwind two-day tour of southwestern New York in support of Dulles' U. S. senatorial candidacy. He interrupted the tour with an air to New York city Wednesday night to address a rally in Queens. Dulles' election November 8 is essential to the continued success of the nation's bi-partisan foreign policy, Dewey said, adding: "We have had five Democratic secretaries of state and two presidents under whom he has served as an advisor on foreign policy."

A Heavy Drinking City

New York, (AP)—New York city's daily water consumption rose to 1,400,000,000 gallons a day during the hot June drouth, or about 200,000,000 gallons a day more than normal. Officials warned against wasting water by sprinkling lawns or by leaving fire hydrants open. A single open hydrant will spill five million gallons of water a day into the street.

Rohrbach Outpoints Bell to Extend Winning Streak to 42 Straight

Decisions by Vozdik and Steele Touch Off Three Lively Rhubarbs

Boxing patrons got an early quit last night at the municipal auditorium and you could forgive Referees Joe Vozdik and Bob Steele if they were happy about it all.

The two popular and capable arbiters had one of those nights when everything went wrong and they got blamed for everything.

Bruce Rohrbach, 160, a sharp counter punching 160-pounder from Harrisburg, Pa., decisively outpointed Boston's Tony Bell, 155, in the feature bout but the real excitement occurred in three other contests of varying intensity.

Vozdik, roundly cheered by the fans as he made his appearance shortly after Referee Steele had been forced to make two tough decisions, was embroiled in a dispute ere the echoes of the cheers had died down.

No Faulting Referee

In all three cases this observer had to go along with the third man in the ring.

Vozdik's difficulties stemmed from a bizarre "knockout" suffered by Wee Willie Smith in a clashing contest with Libby Manzolillo, popular Jeffersonville boxer, in 51 seconds of the third round.

After two fast rounds in which Manzolillo was building up a clear margin, the Jeffersonville youth cornered the Poughkeepsie Negro along the ropes and nailed him with a beautiful left hook and right cross. Smith slumped to the canvas hurt, but apparently still retaining his faculties.

Smith seemed ready to jump up midway in the count when Referee Vozdik motioned him to stay down for the mandatory count of eight prescribed by amateur rules.

Something Happened

When Vozdik reached the count of eight, everybody expected to see Smith bounce to his feet. But somewhere between the counts of eight and nine, something happened to the reflexes and mechanisms that make the boy click. He took the "nine" and then the "10" as the crowd looked on in amazement. Smith leaped to his feet a split second after Vozdik had tolled the fatal ten, but he was too late and, according to boxing rules, Vozdik had no choice but to declare it a "knockout" and that's how it stands in the record books.

The jam packed house got on Referee Steele for stopping a sensational brawl between Bob Hobbs, 166, Albany, and Bob Hornbeck, 165, Poughkeepsie, in 33 seconds of the first round when Hornbeck suffered a severe cut over his right eye. Dr. Anthony Maucerl, the club physician, examined Hornbeck's optic and ordered the bout halted To this observer it seemed like a sensible move, although it curtailed what was developing into a caveman brawl.

Referee Steele halted a five-rounder between Bob Carrington, 135, of Boston and Mitchell Mundy, 140, of Harrisburg, in 18 seconds of the fourth round and awarded Mundy a technical knockout This was another case in which the referee used good common sense and the crowd disagreed. A few seconds before Steele intervened, Carrington had given definite signs that he was no longer interested in further association with Mundy

Rohrbach Sharp

The main event between Rohrbach and Bell featured two sharp counter punches with the undefeated Pennsylvania mauler getting in the sharpest blows throughout the fight. Rohrbach had height and reach on the Boston Negro and used them to good advantage. Rohrbach scored consistently with sharp left hooks and had Bell in trouble at the end of the second round.

Bell's best round was the fourth and he scored quickly with three counter shots to start the fifth but Rohrbach quickly regained command with two hard rights and a left hook. He had Bell tired and wavering at the final bell.

Smith Wins

In the semi-final, John O'Neal 178, of Boston, stopped Clarence Matthews, 172, of Harrisburg, in 1:58 of the second round with a punch few people in the arena saw. Referee Joe Vozdik said it was a hard right to the heart during an inside exchange. Matthews slumped to the canvas, writhing in agony and rolled over twice while Vozdik was counting him out.

Harry Smith, 126, Berkshire School, outpointed Roosevelt Clark 130, Albany, in a fast three-rounder

The Jim Hardy-Tommy Speaks bout was not staged because Hardy reported overweight.

Officials for the card were. Bob Steele and Joe Vozdik, referees; Lou Shore Sr. and Lou Shore Jr., judges; Morton Finch and Meyer Kaplan, timekeepers and Dave Popick, announcer.

The next card will be held next Thursday, November 3, it was announced. Further details will be announced later.

Maroon Slight Choice Over Port

Kingston High rules a slight favorite over Port Jervis for their DUSO League clash tonight on Glennette Field in the tri-state city. Army Heavy Choice Over VMI Eleven

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 28—Army's undefeated, untied and virtually unchallenged football team seeks its seventeenth straight game without defeat when it meets Virginia Military Institute at Michie Stadium on Saturday.

The Kaydets from Lexington have been unable to defeat the Army in four previous efforts. In their last trip north in 1941, however, V.M.I. threw a scare into the Army camp before succumbing 27 to 20, in Coach Earl Blaik's first season at the cadet helm.

This season under the tutelage of Tom Nugent, V.M.I. has enjoyed only moderate success, defeating George Washington U. and Richmond by 14 to 7 scores. They were defeated by the Quantico Marines (14-7); William & Mary (54-6) and Virginia (32-13).

V.M.I. will stake its hopes primarily on the good right arm of Joe Veltri. In five games this season Veltri completed 37 of 77 passes for 501 yards. Five of his losses went for touchdowns, one in each game.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Coming back with another series of forecasts, knowing there can not be another flock of upsets such as hit the football world last weekend.

Last week's score was 57 correct selections and 17 incorrect for a .770 average That made the season's figures 285 correct, 70 wrong for .803

Michigan over Illinois—This is the twenty-fifth anniversary of Red Grange's big day at Michigan's expense. Illinois, surprise leader of the Big Ten, will wish Grange was playing again. But another redhead, Chuck Ortmann of Michigan, will be the hero.

Notre Dame over Navy—What do you expect, a miracle?

California over U.C.L.A.—California has permitted its three previous coast conference opponents less than a touchdown each, U.C.L.A. yielded an average of two to each of its four loop rivals Pappy Waldorf, California coach, wants to be host in the Rose Bowl game.

Army over Virginia Military—At Army a student is known as a cadet; at Virginia Military he is a keydet. The difference is even greater on the football field.

Ohio State over Northwestern—With the fullback problem at Northwestern still unsettled the Ohioans have the edge.

Pittsburgh over Pennsylvania—Penn is among the nation's unbeaten but hasn't looked sharp in any of its four victories. This is the game of the year for Pitt.

Baylor over Texas Christian—Arkansas beat T.C.U. by three touchdowns, lost to Baylor by the same margin On a basis of comparative scores entirely

Oklahoma over Iowa State—Oklahoma has a great quarterback in Royal and a great end in Owens What more do the Sooners need?

Texas over Southern Methodist—Doak Walker is out of the hospital but it is not likely that he will be at his best following a week's bout with the flu germs

North Carolina over Tennessee—The dry, home field will help Carolina's famed Charlie Justice in this one.

Cornell over Columbia—Cornell's one-two punch of Chollet and Dorset is as good as any in the Ivy League.

Southern California over Washington—Washington still has backfield trouble and the Trojans have Bill (Battleship) Martin.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

Friday: Villanova over Boston College, St. Mary's over Drake, Oklahoma A. & M. over Detroit, College of Pacific over San Jose State, George Washington over Lafayette, Wofford over The Citadel

170 Bantams Sign For Tenpin Program

More than 170 youngsters ranging from 8 to 13 years of age have signed for the Bantam bowling program sponsored by the Kingston Youth Bowling League, it was indicated by returns announced at last night's meeting of the group. George Van Hoesen of the Bowlatorium, chairman of the group, said children can still sign up to November 4. Additional adults are needed to assist in supervising the early phases of the program. All persons interested in donating their services are requested to contact Van Hoesen at the Bowlatorium.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)

(By The Associated Press)

Baseball

Washington — The Justice Department withdrew its probe of baseball's broadcasting and television operations.

Philadelphia—The Philadelphia Athletics said the St. Louis Browns turned down a $200,000 offer for outfielder Roy Sievers.

St. Louis — The St. Louis Browns announced that all their players over 28 years old are up for sale.

Boxing

Detroit — Detroit Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy ordered an investigation to determine if gamblers were involved in the Felton-Gavilan fight.

Tennis

London—Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Osborne du Pont headed the world's amateur tennis rankings announced by the Daily Telegraph.

Football

Washington—A Federal Court order forbidding the Washington Redskins of the National Football League to use center Joel Williams of the American League was cancelled.

Saddler Opens Drive For Shot at Williams

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Sandy Saddler, the slender Harlem scrapper who held the world featherweight championship for a short time, heads a "test" card tonight as boxing returns to Madison Square Garden after six weeks' absence.

Saddler encounters rugged Paddy De Marco in the top ten round bout of a triple windup program. Jimmy Flood, an exceedingly popular young middleweight, faces Herbie Kronowitz in another ten and Tony La Bua of Ozone Park, N. Y., meets Freddie Russo of Rahway, N. J., in a third.

For Saddler and De Marco it is a test of their qualifications to meet lightweight champion Ike Williams in a title bout. Sandy has lost only one fight out of 12 this year. That was to Willie Pep and he lost the featherweight title with it. The rough-and-ready De Marco also has been beaten by Pep, but he has whipped such rivals as Terry Young (twice), Humberto Sierra and Billy Graham

Saddler is a 1 to 4 favorite in the main bout.

Phillies Interested In Glenn Davis

Philadelphia, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies are very much interested in Lt. Glenn Davis as a baseball player.

Bob Carpenter, owner of the club, said yesterday regulations prohibit discussing of contracts while men still are in the armed forces.

"But," he added, "there are indications Davis would be interested in a career with the Phillies."

The Boston Red Sox and other clubs also are said to be interested in Davis, all-American back on West Point's wartime football team Davis also was highly rated as an outfielder. He becomes eligible for an army discharge June 1.

Ex-Heavy Champion Heads Tuesday Card

Primo Carnera, the ex-circus man and former world's boxing champion who went broke as boxing champion but found riches in the wrestling game, headlines the Tuesday, Nov. 1 card at the municipal auditorium.

Promoter Bill Johnston's top offering of the season will introduce to Kingston fans one of the most fabulous figures in the history of boxing.

Everyone knows the story of how the Ambling Alp was brought to America by the little Frenchman, Leon See, and then grabbed by the boxing mob who milked him for every cent of tremendous purses.

Carnera, who has applied for American citizenship, was a famous European wrestler before See induced him to come to America and try his hand at boxing. He has been matched against the California villain, Hardy Kruskamp in Tuesday's headliner.

Top Gate Lure

Carnera has been a welcome sight to fans and promoters alike. He has plenty on the ball as a wrestler and continues as one of the biggest gate magnets in the racket.

Promoters the country over have benefited by the giant Italian's appearances. In the east some gates went as high as $20,000; at Los Angeles he drew an all-time high for mat shows of $11,000 and his recent Venezuelan tour clicked to the tune of $100,000.

Primo is doing great financially. After losing his ring crown, Carnera went flat broke. When the big fellow returned to his native Italy, he had little to show for his fabulous career as heavyweight champion and was ready to give up.

It was Joe "Toots" Mondt, wrestling connoisseur de luxe, who changed all that for him. Remembering that Primo used to be a sensational Greco-Romano wrestler before he succumbed to the lure of boxing, Toots gave the big bruiser the once over and was quickly impressed by his remarkable skill on the mat.

Always in Shape

Carnera's climb in the catch-as-catch-can style of wrestling was phenomenal. Many rate him with Frank Sexton as the two best wrestlers in the game. He still follows a Spartan routine in training, keeps himself in wonderful shape as his splendid physique indicates.

Looking back over his three years of wrestling, Carnera comes up with this observation:

"Wrestling today is a lot faster and tougher than it was when I broke in. A guy has to stay in shape to be able to compete with the younger fellows who continue to come up, but I believe I am doing pretty good."

There is another giant on Tuesday's card who should thrill Kingston fans. The bald-pated, gargantuan 7-foot, 270-pound Pole, Ladislav Talun who broke Harry "Bad Man" Finkelstein's back in four minutes on the last card. Talun is probably the most fearsome looking specimen in wrestling today and is reputed to be one of the strongest men of our time.

Narrow Escape

Cleveland, (AP)—After the Cleveland Browns escaped from Baltimore with a last-quarter 28-20 All-America Conference win over the Colts, Otto Graham, their T formation quarterback genius, relaxed by piloting the plane for an hour or so on the return trip. The players began to grumble that one narrow escape was enough for one day until Graham explained he was a flyer during the war.

Television Model Will Bowl Here

A mixed doubles exhibition for the Polio Fund will be staged Saturday night at the Bowlatorium at 9 o'clock and will feature Etta Barton, television star and model, and "Bosty" Viscuso of the Met Major League against local tandems. Miss Barton bowls in the New York and New Jersey women's majors. Viscuso is a competent trundler in both the N. Y. and N. J. men's wheels. They will roll against Angie Ferraro and Evelyn Gross in one set and Rose Schatzel and George Van Hoesen in another. The public is invited.

Capot and Coaltown Battle for '49 Honors

Baltimore, Oct 28 (AP) The showdown in 1949 horse racing is all set today in the Pimlico Special.

At stake for the taking by Coaltown or Capot are the year's major laurels of the turf. Everything has been thrown into the pot for this one race.

Both trainers, John Gaver of Capot, and Jimmy Jones of Coaltown, said it probably will be the last start of the year for their colts.

So the Special is it, a final meeting head to head with the track to themselves between the leading contenders for the championship of 1949 racing.

Plane With Cerdan Found

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—A transatlantic plane—missing four hours with French fighter Marcel Cerdan and 36 other passengers—has been sighted on a peak in the Azores Islands, Air France said here today. "Search plane reports survivors," said a message from the airline's Azores office. The plane was sighted on Algarvia peak on San Miguel Island, according to the message from the Air France office on Santa Maria Island, about 50 miles away. The Constellation, bound for the United States from Paris, was overdue at Santa Maria Airport. Air France said the message did not indicate how many survivors were sighted. No other details were available immediately.

Not Much Gold Yet

Washington, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Alaskan "gold strike" apparently has produced less than $50 worth of acutal gold, an Interior Department official has reported from the scene. "The only persons making money from the gold strike now are bush pilots," Fred Weiler said in a telegram to the department. Weiler, who heads the Bureau of Land Management office at Fairbanks, added: "Some nuggets have been found, but the value of all gold actually taken from the ground probably would not exceed $50." Of the 300 persons who visited the Fishwheel strike area 120 miles north of Fairbanks, Weiler said, only about 50 are staying on the ground." He said the others who staked claims have returned to Fairbanks to await developments.

About 37 per cent of Austria is covered by forests, mostly spruce.

Rough Session Due

Cleveland, Oct. 28 (AP)—Hard-hitting Harry Bridges, leader of 65,000 longshoremen, declared today the only way his union would leave the C.I.O. "would be if we're booted out." The west coast leader who takes pride in calling his union a left-wing organization—admitted he thought next week's annual convention would be "rough as all hell." That is because right wing forces are determined to have a showdown with the 11 or 12 unions under left leaders. But Bridges said a committee of about a dozen representatives of key locals in the longshoremen's union will meet with C.I.O. President Philip Murray. Murray holds the answer to how tough the fight becomes.

Police Auctioneer Sees That Kids Get Cycles

Detroit, Oct. 28 (AP)—About 100 Detroit youngsters were riding new bicycles today because a police auctioneer had an understanding heart.

Alex Anderson was auctioning off unclaimed property—bicycles, sports equipment, adding machines, wallets and jewelry—at the police department's annual sale.

His customers included children clutching hoarded nickels and dimes and a group of grownups.

Anderson wheeled up the first bike and a man at the back shouted a bid of $10. Another called out $15.

"Now hold everything," said Anderson. "This is for kids. Only kids will bid and the bidding starts at a quarter."

It didn't go much higher than that. After two young brothers had bid a dollar, Anderson stopped the bidding and the grinning boys took the bike.

After that Anderson wouldn't hear a bid over a dollar until each child had a bicycle. One little girl explained she had saved only 82 cents.

"Pay the man your money, honey", smiled Anderson. "You've got a bicycle."

After the last child rode off happily, the adult bidding quickly disposed of the remainder for a total sale of $3,554.

2 Attorneys Plead Innocent in Rent Bonus Payments

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Two brothers, who are attorneys, pleaded innocent yesterday in General Sessions Court to charges of exacting apartment rental bonuses in the form of down payments on automobiles. Judge Jacob Gould Schumran paroled both to await trial.

The defendants are George B. Rabinor, 37, of 25 Wood Lane, Woodmere, Long Island, and Samuel Rabinor, 41, of 88-44 163rd street, Jamaica, Queens.

George is also a builder and the brothers are co-owners of an apartment building at 7901 Fourth avenue, Brooklyn.

The indictment charged George with exacting $500 from Mrs. Lillian Joseph, of the Fourth avenue address, for the rental of an apartment there on October 20, 1947.

Samuel is charged with exacting $500 from Laurence Dorgan, for an apartment in the same building on August 26, 1947.

Instead of requesting that the money be paid directly to the brothers, it is charged, the owners required it be paid to two automobile distributors as down payment on a new car for each.

George was originally arrested last November on a criminal information, as is usual in such cases, but moved to have the case heard in General Sessions, and an indictment was returned.

In Special Sessions yesterday, informations were returned by a grand jury against Emanuel Lurla, 47, year-old attorney, of 88-04 63rd Drive, Forest Hills, Queens, and Irving Sokolsky, 50, of 160 Coombes avenue, Woodmere, L. I., owner of an apartment building at 216 East 12th street, charging each with exacting $350 for an apartment rental.

Both men pleaded innocent before Justice Joseph V. Loscalzo and hearings were set for November 14. Lurla was paroled and $500 bail was set for Sokolsky.

The information charged specifically that Lurla took $350 from Miss Ruth Polansky, of 404 East 14th street, on November 4, 1947, in behalf of Sokolsky, his client, and that later Sokolsky accepted the same amount from Charles Aschkanes, who moved into the apartment vacated by Miss Polansky.

Two Bronx Men Are Held for Theft Of 14 Automobiles

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—Two men who allegedly stole 14 automobiles in The Bronx in the past eight months and realized approximately $20,000 through their sale were arrested on grand larceny charges last night.

Police identified the prisoners as Frank Martos, 20, of 530 Brook avenue, and George Ochs, 20, of 733 Forest avenue, both of The Bronx.

Martos also was booked on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Police said six of the stolen automobiles had been recovered and five others traced to persons who thought they had made legitimate purchases.

Ochs, according to detectives, was the "wheel man" of the car-stealing team and loitered near garages to observe attendants drive machines to the home of customers. When a garage was left without a custodian, police said, Ochs selected an expensive model and drove it away.

Police said Ochs turned over the stolen machines to Martos and the two then offered late model cars for sale after having obtained new license plates.

The latter was done, according to police, by buying second hand vehicles from used car firms and making the bills of sale and other papers correspond to the stolen vehicles.

The pair used ink eradicator and other devices in preparing what appeared to be legitimate bills of sale and registration papers, according to police.

Dulles Confident Of Victory in U. S. Senate Race

By HARRY O'DONNELL

En Route With Dulles, Oct. 28 (AP)—Senator John Foster Dulles winds up his six-week upstate campaign today, expressing confidence of victory in New York's nationally-watched Senate election Nov. 8.

Dulles said ex-Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, his Democratic-Liberal opponent, "recognizes that his election is in grave jeopardy."

The Republican candidate told newsmen at Rochester:

"I go back to New York city tonight confident that I can hold the Democratic majority there down to a figure that will be substantially less than my upstate majority."

Dulles attends a G.O.P. rally at Cortland this afternoon and closes his last upstate campaign tonight at Syracuse.

Stumping in the upper Finger Lakes region, and in Rochester yesterday, Dulles:

1—Contended that if he were not elected "the chances are there will be an end" to America's bipartisan foreign policy, a development he said would endanger world peace.

2—Denounced what he called the Truman administration's welfare state and trend toward an all-powerful government as "real reaction" and not "liberalism or humanitarianism."

3—Accused Lehman of deliberately leaving out the phrase "blessings of liberty" recently in quoting the preamble to the federal constitution. Dulles said it was a "clear confession" by the former governor that "in his welfare state there is no room" for individual liberty and freedom.

About 3,000 greeted Dulles last night at a G.O.P. rally in Rochester's sports arena. Dulles will campaign in New York city and the metropolitan area in the final week of the bitterly-fought campaign.

"With the help of all Republican organizations," he said, "I have done the job I started out to do upstate. It is obvious now that there is an aroused interest in this election upstate, which will bring out a far bigger vote—a predominantly Republican vote—than the Democrats had anticipated."

He said the Democrats had counted on winning the off-year Senate election "by default"—through a big Democratic edge in New York city and G.O.P. apathy they expected upstate.

Concerning President Truman's administration, Dulles contended it was moving toward an all-powerful central government involving the "surrender of liberty" by the individual.

"That," he asserted, "is going back to the things our government was founded to combat. Our nation was founded as an experiment in human liberty and human freedom."

Dulles said "the example we set is no longer catching peoples' imaginations. On the contrary, it is the gains of depotism and the feeling that we must, to solve our problems, enslave ourselves to a totalitarian state."

"I say," he asserted, "that is not liberalism or humanitarianism. I say that is real reaction."

Blamed for Defrauding

New York, Oct. 28 (AP)—A federal grand jury yesterday indicted Robert L. Bradford, 57, of 71-60 Manse street, Forest Hills, Queens, on charges of "devising a scheme to defraud" four corporations. According to Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas F. Burchill, Bradford billed several corporations for services he said were ordered by executives who had just died. Burchill said the prisoner was being held in lieu of $5,000 bail.
